

WESTERN SYDNEY UNIVERSITY

INFORMATION FOR NON-AWARD AND CROSS INSTITUTIONAL STUDY APPLICANTS

If you are applying to study one or more units at Western Sydney University, you will need to nominate the course you wish to enrol in when you complete your online application.

There are four main types of study:

1. Undergraduate Non-Award – course code 9302
2. Postgraduate Non-Award – course code 9301
3. Cross Institutional study at undergraduate level – course code 9308
4. Cross institutional study at postgraduate level – course code 9309

Undergraduate Non-Award

If you are applying for Non-Award study for any of the following reasons, you need to choose Undergraduate Non-Award – course code 9302:

- to meet CPA requirements
- to undertake further units in addition to your completed Bachelor degree
- to meet the NSW NESA requirements to teach in a NSW school
- to update your skills in the area of your previous undergraduate study

You can nominate any undergraduate unit available on a Non-Award basis and study up to two units each session. If you wish to study more units (maximum of four) you will need to state your reason in your application. Please note that units in the Bachelor of Medicine/Bachelor of Surgery and the Doctor of Medicine are not available.

Postgraduate Non-Award

If you are applying for Non-Award study for any of the following reasons, you need to choose Postgraduate Non-Award – course code 9301:

- to undertake postgraduate level units in addition to your completed bachelor degree, without enrolling in a postgraduate degree
- to update your skills in the area of your previous postgraduate study

You can nominate any postgraduate unit available on a Non-Award basis and study up to two units each session. If you wish to study more units (maximum of four) you will need to state your reason in your application.

Cross Institutional study

If you are applying to study units at Western Sydney University as a Cross Institutional student from another university, you need to choose one of the following:

- Cross Institutional study undergraduate – course 9308; or
- Cross Institutional study postgraduate – course 9309

If you are applying to study as a Cross Institutional student, you must provide Western Sydney University with the following from your home higher education provider (institution):

- a letter from your home institution confirming that units studied at Western Sydney University will be recognised as part of your degree
- a certified copy of your most recent academic transcript

Supporting documentation - documents that you are required to submit to support your application are uploaded in the online application. All documents attached must be certified correctly by an authorised person. Find out how to certify documents at westernsydney.edu.au/certifyingdocuments.
