The Year in Review

A MESSAGE FROM THE CHANCELLOR AND VICE-CHANCELLOR

It has been a challenging yet successful year for Western Sydney University. In 2018, the University performed exceptionally well in a number of global rankings surveys, achieved considerable growth in student load, and continued to build its international partnerships and collaborations. These successes were achieved against rising competition both domestically and internationally and under considerable financial constraint caused by the Commonwealth’s freeze on funding for domestic students.

As Australia’s fastest growing region, Western Sydney is rapidly attracting the attention of competitors and creating new and unique opportunities for collaboration. In 2018, the University announced two exciting initiatives: the Engineering Innovation Hub with the University of New South Wales; and the Multiversity campus at the Western Sydney Aerotropolis site in partnership with the NSW Government, and the Universities of New South Wales, Wollongong and Newcastle. These collaborative partnerships will enable partners to harness each other’s expertise in the relevant disciplines and deliver superior learning experiences and research excellence.

The University achieved a significant milestone in 2018 with the opening of the Ngara Ngura building (Liverpool City campus), a major growth centre of Western Sydney. Planning for the Bankstown CBD campus continues and this will further strengthen our presence within the region. These technology-infused, vertical campuses place our students at the forefront of educational innovation. Embedded in key business centres, these campuses create opportunities for partnerships with industry that enable practical learning opportunities for our students, enhancing their skills and employability. The eco-friendly design of our buildings also helps minimise our environmental impact.

On an international scale, our partnerships continue to expand. In September 2018, a trilateral agreement between Western Sydney University, Beijing University of Chinese Medicine and the South Western Sydney Local Health District was announced, establishing the Australia-China Cancer Research Alliance.

The international reach and reputation of the University continues to grow. During the year, a 14.5% increase in commencing international students was achieved. They come from a diverse range of countries. The University will continue to expand engagement efforts to further grow our international student cohort, create exchange opportunities for students and staff, and promote research collaboration. At the conclusion of 2018, international students comprised 14.8% of our total student population. Over the next few years, we will progressively increase that number to a maximum of 20% of our total student population.

The University maintained its standing in the top two percent of universities worldwide in 2018, with an improvement in the Times Higher Education World University Rankings to 351–400, up from 401–500 in 2017.

In 2018, our graduates were rated as the highest for employer satisfaction of all University graduates in NSW. This is an outstanding achievement for our graduates and we as a university are very proud. It strongly supports the quality of our programs that embed practical learning and equip our students with skills to succeed in the workforce. Another remarkable achievement for our students was the American Solar Car Challenge, in which a group of our students from different program disciplines won first place in the event, beating a number of the world’s highest ranked institutions.

We remain committed to promoting diversity and equity. In 2018, the University was awarded Workplace Gender Equality Agency Employer of Choice for the thirteenth consecutive year. Our commitment to achieving gender equality amongst the STEM disciplines is being pursued through the Science in Australia Gender Equity (SAGE) program, and in 2018, our SAGE team launched the Gender Unlimited seminar series. We also furthered our efforts to respond to the recommendations of the Australian Human Rights Commission Change the Course report on sexual assault and harassment through the Respect. Now: Always. Taskforce. The Taskforce oversees campaigns and training programs that promote respectful and safe relationships.
As Western Sydney continues to expand, the University is securing its place as an anchor institution within the region. In 2018, the revised Securing Success 2018-2020 Strategic Plan was released. It better reflects the centrality of Western Growth to the future success of the University, provides a clearer articulation of the University as a student-centred and research-led institution, strengthens our engagement agenda, and emphasises the critical importance of our International Strategy. The University also released the Western Health Decadal Strategy which aligns our health research, education and engagement activities throughout the coming decade with the health priorities of the region.

Throughout 2018, the University further advanced major projects, including Western Growth, the 21C Curriculum Project, and review of the University’s academic structure. These projects will position the University well for the future of higher education whilst promoting effective engagement with business and community partners, and ensuring the University’s long-term financial sustainability.

The 21C Curriculum Project seeks to future proof the University’s curriculum in response to workplace disruption and social change. Our goal is to equip our students with the skills and knowledge needed for new and evolving careers. Over the course of 2018, multi-disciplinary next-generation curriculum elements were developed using partnership pedagogy and technology-rich learning environments, and Schools progressed proposals for new simplified degree structures. In the near future, the University will investigate the potential for alternative credentialing.

The review of our academic structures will be finalised over the course of 2019 as the University prepares for full implementation in 2020. Our new structure will strengthen the University’s governance mechanisms and enable our academics to provide optimum learning experiences for our students, who remain at the core of our priorities.

The Shared Services program, which centralises the University’s support foundations, was fully implemented in 2018. A post-implementation review of the program undertaken during the year identified that, while the overall objectives of Shared Services were achieved, some areas require ongoing support. We will continue to enhance the program to ensure that the full benefits of Shared Services are realised.

In short, despite challenging financial and competitive circumstances in 2018, the University has had a remarkably successful year. The challenges of 2018 will continue into 2019, but we are well-prepared. We will remain focused on further strengthening our commitment to our students and to our region. We look forward to an exciting and ‘Unlimited’ future.

BOARD CHARTER

The Board of Trustees is the governing body of the University with those functions prescribed under the Western Sydney University Act 1997. The Board acts for and on behalf of the University. Its key functions are to develop broad policies and strategic plans with respect to the University, manage the University’s resources and monitor the University’s performance. The members – official, appointed and elected – meet approximately six times each year in addition to a strategic planning day. The Board is supported in its work by a number of specialist committees and advisory councils.

Details about the Board, including summaries and minutes of meetings are published on the University’s website at: westernsydney.edu.au/about_uws/leadership/board_of_trustees/board_meetings

The compliance statement of the Board of Trustees is contained in Appendix 1 to this Report.

The number of meetings attended by each member is contained in Appendix 2 to this Report.
SUMMARY OF KEY BOARD DELIBERATIONS IN 2018

Key decisions of the Board of Trustees during 2018 included:

- Endorsing the decision of University management to over-enrol Commonwealth Government Scheme undergraduate students above the funding cap set by the Commonwealth Government for 2019, reflecting the University’s mission, under the Western Sydney University Act, to meet the educational needs of the Greater Western Sydney region;
- Approving the establishment of the University of New South Wales to establish a new, purpose-built facility at Parramatta and to offer a joint engineering program;
- Approving in principle the establishment of the University of New South Wales to establish a new, purpose-built facility at Parramatta and to offer a joint engineering program;
- Approving a strategic partnership with the University of New South Wales to establish a new, purpose-built facility at Parramatta and to offer a joint engineering program;
- Endorsing the establishment of the Campbelltown Sports and Health Centre of Excellence, in partnership with Campbelltown City Council;
- Approving the request for the proposal process for the divestment of Milperra campus;
- Approving the establishment of the National Institute of Complementary Medicine as a University Research Institute;
- Approving the University becoming a participant in the Digital Health Cooperative Research Centre;
- Approving midway revisions to the University Strategic Plan 2018-2020;
- Approving a number of new or revised policies or statements, including the Responsible Investment Policy, the University’s Risk Appetite Statement, Statement of Core Principles for Use of the University Corpus and Operating Protocols 2019-2023, the Fraud and Corruption Risk Management Framework and the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Island People’s Education Policy; and
- Resolving to adopt the NSW Standard Governing Body Provisions, which amend the Western Sydney University Act with respect to membership of the Board of Trustees. These changes reduce the number of Ministerial appointments from six to two, and increase the number of Board appointments from five to nine. There was no change to the total number of Board members.

The Board continued to receive regular updates on the University’s Western Growth Strategy.

At its annual strategy day held at the University’s new Liverpool City campus, the Board approved the development of a Decadal Planning Framework to set priorities and inform strategic directions over the next two decades.

It approved the overarching goal of Western Sydney University becoming a major global university recognised for transformation, excellence and engaged impact, and that the goal would be expressed through the target of being ranked first in Australia and in the top ten in the world in the Times Higher Education Young University Rankings by 2038.

The Board also approved the 2019-2021 budget, continuing to take a conservative approach due to the current policy and funding uncertainty facing the higher education sector.

The Board of Trustees also approved the following names of University buildings as follows:
- the Liverpool City campus as the Ngara Ngura building, and the foyer of the Liverpool City campus as the “Aunty Mae Foyer”;
- School of Medicine Building the “Len Ainsworth Building”;
- the Moot Court on the Parramatta South Campus the “Landerer Moot Court”;
- The EKAs Board Room at Parramatta South Campus the “Ngara Baramada room”; and
- The Library in the Blacktown Clinical School as “The Professor Peter Zelas Library”.

Throughout the year, the Board of Trustees noted the University’s deliberations about course and unit reviews and received reports from Academic Senate about:
- academic governance matters;
- reviews and amendments of academic policies;
- monitoring of academic standards and integrity;
- assessment and review of TEGSAs regulatory requirements; and
- updates on the 2IC Curriculum Renewal Project.

The Board of Trustees also approved a proposal to conduct an independent review of Academic Senate and its standing committees.

In 2018, an external review of the performance of the Board of Trustees was conducted, and the Board approved the nine recommendations contained in the review in principle to be implemented in 2019.

BOARD AND COMMITTEE MEMBERSHIP

There were a number of key appointments to the Board in 2018. Ms Kerry Stubbs was elected as a Deputy Chancellor to fill the casual vacancy left by the former Deputy Chancellor, Michael Pratt, who resigned from the Board in 2017.

Ms Carmel Hourigan was elected as Deputy Chancellor to commence on 1 January 2019 to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of former Deputy Chancellor Genevieve Gregor on 31 December 2018.

In December 2018, Ms Georgia Lee was appointed to the Board of Trustees as a Board-appointed member to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Ms Gregor. Also in December 2018, Mr Bob Sahota was appointed as a member of the Board of Trustees commencing on 1 July 2019 to replace Mr Christopher Brown, whose term of office expires in June 2019.

The Board of Trustees made a number of new appointments and reappointments to its Finance and Investment Committee and Foundation Council, the University Infrastructure Committee and the Audit and Risk Committee.

ACADEMIC SENATE

Established under the Western Sydney University Act 1997, the Academic Senate is the University’s peak forum for academic debate and discourse, the primary custodian of academic values and standards for the University, and a standing committee of the Board of Trustees. Its responsibilities include promoting and monitoring academic quality, standards and values; advising the Board and Vice-Chancellor on academic matters; deciding academic policy and approving related procedures; accrediting and approving courses, programs and units; and promoting the quality and development of research in the University. It exercises and oversees a wide range of delegations and responsibilities through its standing committees at the University, School and University Research Institute levels. Academic Senate’s Work Plan aligns with the University’s strategic risk register and Securing Success Strategic Plan, and sets out the main priorities for the Academic Senate’s activities, taking account of its role and terms of reference, and the national Higher Education Standards Framework.

ACTIVITIES IN 2018

Elections for Academic Senate member positions commenced in January 2018. Associate Professor Alphia Possamai-Inesedy was elected to the position of Chair in January 2018, and Dr Elfriede Sangkuhl was elected to the position of Deputy Chair in February 2018. Academic staff representing their respective schools were also appointed during this time. An induction for new Academic Senate members was held in April 2018 by the Chair and Deputy Chair. The induction included an overview of the governance structure within the University; general academic board information, the Academic Senate Charter, membership, procedural information, expectations and responsibilities, and importantly, a section dedicated to contributing a persuasive student voice in Academic Senate and its Committees. An induction was held on 29 August 2018 for student committee representatives of the Academic Senate and its standing committees. In addition, a training module for student members of the Academic Senate and its standing committees has been developed by the Office of Governance Services to aid in the orientation of staff and students.

Under the Academic Governance Policy, the Academic Senate is responsible for providing advice on the University’s academic plans and academic risk management. The Chair of the Academic Senate has met with the Director, Audit and Risk Assessment, to discuss academic operational risks that the Academic Senate and its committees help to manage. Mr Aman Chand, Director, Audit and Risk Assessment, attended the April 2018 Academic Senate to discuss strategies to better connect the Office of Audit and Risk Assessment to the Academic Senate.

In October 2018, the Academic Senate approved changes to the Standing Orders for Academic Senate and its standing committees. The Standing Orders provide guidelines on the convening of meetings, documentation and recordkeeping. The approved changes will provide alignment and consistency with those adopted by the Board of Trustees.

An external review of the Academic Senate commenced in November 2018 to evaluate its compliance with Standard 6.3 of the Higher Education Standards Framework (Threshold Standards 2015). This review is intended to satisfy the requirement under Standard 6.1.3(d) for a periodic independent review of academic governance processes, with further aims of determining best practice and providing recommendations for improvement where necessary. The first meeting of the Academic Senate review panel took place on 8 November 2018, and the review panel was invited to attend the February 2019 meeting of the Academic Senate. In addition to the review of survey results and Academic Senate documentation, the panel is expected to conduct short interviews with Academic Senate members. A progress report from the panel is anticipated in March 2019.

At each meeting of Academic Senate, several items are standing agenda items. The Academic Senate notes reports from the Academic Planning and Courses Approvals Committee and approves recommendations contained therein. The Academic Senate or its standing committees, under delegation, also approve variations to courses, specialisations and units. The Academic Senate continues to review and streamline the University’s academic policies and procedures, ensuring that they are student-centred and aligned with the Higher Education Standards Framework. Highlights from 2018 included revisions approved to the Examinations Policy and Procedures, Review of Grade Policy and Academic Appeals Procedures. Under the Scholarships for Undergraduate Policy, the Academic Senate approved the offering and selection criteria for undergraduate scholarships. A number of Posthumous Awards were noted during this time under the Posthumous Awards and Aegrotat Grades Policy.

On behalf of the Academic Senate, the Chair of the Academic Senate convened a panel twice in 2018 to consider student progression appeals, following the Autumn progression round the panel reviewed and made determinations on 335 appeals.

The Academic Senate has engaged closely with the consultation process and review of the University’s Strategic Plan and academic structure, discussing proposals and updates at two Academic Senate meetings in February and August 2018. Professor Sharon Bell, Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Strategy and Planning), provided updates as the White Paper and recommendations have evolved.

In June and August 2018, the Academic Senate engaged with the 2IC Curriculum Renewal Project, and Professor Simon Barrie, Pro Vice-Chancellor (Learning Transformations), provided a mid-year update on the Project. Dr Daniela Spanjaard, Director of Academic Programs, School of Business, provided insight into the Postgraduate Degree Project for the 2IC Curriculum pilot.

Academic Senate receives regular reporting on the University’s research activity. Reports have been provided on the 2018 Engagement and Impact Assessment: Selection of Impact Case Studies, the Draft Research Plan 2018-2020 and our contributions and recognition in the 2018 Excellence in Research for Australia (ERA) assessment.

The Academic Senate Executive Committee meets for the identification of issues requiring attention by the Academic Senate, ensuring the preparation of appropriate draft proposals and recommendations, together with supporting documentation, for consideration by Senate or its standing committees. Some functions are delegated from time to time by the Academic Senate. This Committee can also, where expedient and not contrary to policies, determine urgent matters within the jurisdiction of the Academic Senate, which arise between Academic Senate meetings, and report action taken to the Academic Senate for ratification. Finally, it considers and determines any matters referred to it by the Academic Senate, or by the Chair of Academic Senate, or, where urgency is required, by the Academic Senate’s other committees. The Academic Senate Executive Committee met in July 2018 to determine items of business and interest for future Academic Senate agendas, the Committee also conducted business electronically for the purpose of urgent approvals on course proposals and variations.

Summary Review of Operations: Vice-President (People and Advancement)

University staff fully engaged with the MyVoice survey, returning an 87% response rate. For the first time, sessional academic staff were also surveyed, returning a 29% response rate, which was comparable across the sector. Overwhelmingly, staff responses demonstrated a strong alignment and passion for the University and a strong respect for their colleagues, with mission and values scoring over 80%, and role clarity, job satisfaction, talent, and teamwork also scoring over 80%. Focus groups have been held with all Schools, Institutes and Divisions, with action plans developed to address areas requiring improvements.

Pleasingly, Our People Securing Success addresses many of the elements that were evidenced in the MyVoice survey responses. Implementation of the Our People Securing Success and MyVoice action plans will therefore be completed in concert.

The Office of Human Resources has also partnered closely with the Project Management Office to refine the implementation of the Shared Services project, engaging an external reviewer for the Post Implementation Review.

The Academic Staff Agreement and Professional Staff Agreement each provided for a 2% pay increase effective 9 March 2018.

In 2018, staff development initiatives continued to be offered University wide, including: the Vice-Chancellor Professional Development scholarships (number of scholarships increased); Staff postgraduate study scholarships; Quality Forum; and a Professional Staff conference. The inaugural Senior Women’s conference was held in June 2018, and enjoyed great success. Development programs continue to be conducted, including: a mentoring program for both academic and professional staff, the Academic Promotion readiness program, and the Inspire Leadership program.

HUMAN RESOURCES

Major initiatives driven by the Office of Human Resources during 2018 included finalising the University’s people strategy Our People Securing Success; conducting the MyVoice staff engagement survey; and refining the Shared Services program implementation.

Our People Securing Success was finalised for implementation in 2018. The strategy has a foundation of five critical elements:
- Enhance Organisational Culture and Performance
- Cultivate empowering leadership
- Attract and Retain people with a Shared Purpose
- Develop Careers
- Recognise and Reward People.

Our People Securing Success aims to provide academic and professional staff with opportunities to develop rewarding careers that fulfill their potential and cultivate an inclusive, diverse, dynamic and innovative culture that secures success for Western Sydney University.

EQUITY AND DIVERSITY

The Office of Equity and Diversity is the lead agency at the University on a broad range of equity and diversity matters that align with the University’s 2018–2020 Strategic Plan.

The Office of Equity and Diversity not only supports staff and students and the wider community, but is also committed to meeting its reporting obligations under the Multicultural NSW Act 2000 to promote and ensure equitable and inclusive practices across the University.

GENDER EQUALITY

During 2018, the University continued to be a strong advocate for advancing gender equality, continuously seeking to support and promote gender equality initiatives for the benefit of staff, students and the Greater Western Sydney community:
- For the thirteenth consecutive year, the University was recognised as an Employer of Choice for Gender Equality by the Workplace Gender Equality Agency.
- The University continued to engage in the Science in Australia Gender Equity (SAGE) program. The University’s first application will be submitted in March 2019. Based on the internationally acclaimed Athena SWAN Charter, this program aims to improve the promotion and retention of women in Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics, and Medicine (STEMM).
- The University launched a Domestic and Family Violence Policy and related Staff Guidelines to complement increased provisions in the Enterprise Agreements. Several awareness raising activities were also undertaken to highlight this important issue, including social media posts, a poster campaign, and the distribution of staff information packs.
- International Women’s Day was marked with a staff breakfast, attended by over 60 staff. The keynote speaker, Professor Janice Aldrich-Wright, highlighted key points of progress towards gender equality across the University, and outlined the importance of the University’s engagement with SAGE.
The Vice-Chancellor’s Gender Equality Committee met three times across 2018, with members providing out of session input into key gender equity issues on a regular basis. The role of this Committee is to provide guidance to the Vice-Chancellor and to promote and improve gender equality across the University.

The Vice-Chancellor’s Gender Equality Fund supported six projects in the Fund’s second year. Projects focused on furthering gender equity research, education and promotion.

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersex and Questioning (LGBTIQ)

During 2018, the University made progress on its Sexuality and Gender Diversity strategy 2017-2020, ensuring inclusivity of all LGBTIQ individuals and communities.

The University established an Inclusive Teaching on Diversity Community of Practice with an inaugural event focused on LGBTIQ inclusive teaching and a new site on the students e-learning system curating relevant educational resources.

The University also hosted its first-ever Research Week event focused on LGBTIQ research within the University, and introduced the University’s first online seminar addressing LGBTIQ inclusion within our workplaces.

The University continued to host a rolling calendar of events and activities specifically designed to celebrate and show support for sexuality and gender diverse students and staff. These included:

- Participating in Mardi Gras under the banner of ‘Love Unlimited’. 80 students, staff and alumni marched together at the 40th anniversary.
- To mark International Day Against Homophobia and Transphobia, an event was held at the Kingswood campus, featuring a poster display, resources table, live music and lunch.
- Wear It Purple Day hosted by the University’s Ally Network involving approximately 100 student and staff volunteers gathering for group photos across six campuses to show support for young LGBTIQ Australians.

The student representatives partnered with the Western Queer Prom to lead the Who Bleeds Wins campaign. This is a blood drive that involved all campuses. Student representatives also participated in conferences across Australia, including the NUS Education conference, Queer Collaborations, the Network of Women’s Students Association and the Students as Partners Roundtable.

The Student Representation and Participation (SRP) team welcomed the addition of the Campus Life team. The collaborative efforts of the Campus Life team and the student representatives provided further support to the annual events of Diversity Fest and Western Fair. It is anticipated that the SRP and the Campus Life teams will provide a broader range of support and coordination in 2019 to the Western student clubs and societies.

Disability

The current review of mid-term progress on the AAP demonstrates that most initial action items have been significantly addressed. For example, the Disability Service have partnered with Information Technology and Digital Services (ITDS) to develop a systematic tracking of Academic Integration Plans (AIPs), which is being trialled in several Schools; new disability-confidence education programs are being implemented; new positions have been created within some Schools to coordinate support for staff and students with disability; a joint Committee is being implemented to continuously improve accessibility and amenity for physical access, with a focus on the University’s new vertical campuses; and there have been improvements in communications with all new students to encourage early disclosure and support.

The Office of Equity and Diversity continues to provide reasonable workplace adjustments to staff with disability to address specific workplace barriers. The centralised Staff Workplace Adjustment Fund ensures the provision of assistive equipment, software, training and additional occupational assessments and medical advice, to create a flexible and adaptive workplace environment that best meets individual needs. Almost without exception, every staff member disclosing a disability to the Office of Equity and Diversity was able to continue their career and productively contribute their skills and experience to the University as a result of their Reasonable Adjustment Plans (RAPs). During 2018, the Office of Equity and Diversity received 111 enquiries and referrals for new RAPs, of which 87 translated into assistance for reasonable adjustments in the workplace. The unit provided ongoing support and advice and education to managers and line supervisors in effective accommodation of disability in the workplace. This program will continue to be expanded in 2019.

In 2018, the University was granted funding for an additional four years to continue to operate the National Disability Coordination Officer (NDCO) program. During 2018, 24 presentations were made at conferences and events. The NDCO hosted or collaborated on 44 events with approximately 5000 attendees.

During 2018, the NDCO Program collaborated on a range of projects designed to enhance participation of People with Disability in tertiary education and employment settings. Some of these projects included Multicultural Inclusive Films Project, University Specialist Employment Partnerships (USEP), Life After SLES Program and Pathway to Employability Careers Forum.
MULTICULTURAL POLICIES AND SERVICES

The University is committed to ensuring that the skills and talents of all students, staff and its diverse community are supported, enriched and given every opportunity to access services and programs offered by the University. The University’s commitment to upholding the principles of Multicultural NSW as set out in the Multicultural NSW Act 2000 are summarised below:-

Cultural and Linguistic Diversity

Developing and leveraging the University’s relationships with community partners, the University’s Chaplaincy service was able to better engage students from multicultural backgrounds from Greater Western Sydney with historical tours, cultural literacy meetups, surf safety courses and educational bush walks. The Chaplaincy service expanded the evening soup kitchen to five campuses and regularly served over 400 meals per week.

The cultural literacy meetup was a pilot this year at the Campbelltown campus. Approximately, 12 students participated, and the focus was on sharing language. The Chaplaincy service hopes to expand the literacy program in 2019 to other campuses.

As Chair of the Australian Multicultural Council, Professor Sev Ozdowski AM, Director of Equity and Diversity, hosted and participated in the 9th International Conference on International Human Rights Education (ICHRE) which was held at Western Sydney University, Parramatta South campus in November 2018.

ICHRE explored the question “how can human rights education develop and strengthen civil society and transform the ways in which civil society works”? The conference provided an opportunity for participants to learn about the latest research, practices and trends in human rights education. The 10th ICHRE will be held in Nepal.

Emerging Refugee and New Communities (Settlement Support Services)

The Refugee, New and Emerging Communities Education Engagement program continued to leverage its partnerships with community and government agencies, which included the Refugee Council of Australia, Settlement Services International, Mount Druitt Ethnic Community Agency and Navitas, all of which provide essential support services to students as they adjust to their new way of University life. During 2018, some of the continuing student support services included:

- Continuing to host Uni-taster days for refugee and asylum seeker students that assist to build confidence, familiarity and a sense of belonging to the University community.
- 2018 witnessed the informal campfire chat initiative evolve into a student refugee group called United Voice. This group increases visibility and strengthens the student refugee voice across three main campuses: Kingswood, Campbelltown and Parramatta South.

As part of the In-School program supported by the Emerging Refugee and New Communities program, scholarships continued to be awarded to refugee and migrant students. In 2018, a representative from Western Sydney University occupied a seat at the Refugee Council of Australia in support of advocating scholarships for Asylum seeker students to study at the University.

Since 2008, the Office of Equity and Diversity’s Open Fora series has continued to host a number of key discussions debating global issues on social and human rights topics. Delivered by distinguished speakers, the discussion topics for 2018 included:
- Hazara Human Rights Forum
- The Struggle of Identity Politics in India
- Combating Modern Slavery
- Ukraine in Europe: Today and Tomorrow
- Current Attacks on Political Freedom of Speech.

The Emerging Refugee and New Communities program continued to support intensive English language foundation courses through Western Sydney University. The College for refugee and migrant students as they study to transition to University.

The Office is responsible for facilitating relationships with alumni, the community, students and staff, in partnership with other areas of the University, to raise funds in support of research and student success.

FOUNDATION COUNCIL

The University’s Foundation Council is a sub-committee of the Board of Trustees and is comprised of distinguished business leaders and alumni who support the University and the Office of Advancement in achieving its strategic goals, through philanthropy.

PHILANTHROPIC SUPPORT – 2018

In 2018, Western Sydney University received the strongest support from donors in its 29 year history. New gift commitments of $21.6 million were pledged in 2018, the direct impact of which will continue for many years. The University also received $11.4 million in cash donations over this period.

The University received a significant donation of $10 million ($2 million per year for 5 years) from Mr Len Ainsworth AM and Mrs Margarete Ainsworth towards the University’s health and medical research at the School of Medicine. The Jacka Foundation of Natural Therapies pledged a further $6 million over the next 15 years towards the NICM Health Research Institute at Westmead, bringing their combined total giving to the University to $10 million.

There has been a strong increase in donor supported scholarships in recent years. In 2018, 397 students were supported by donor funded scholarships, an increase from 328 in 2017 and up from only 141, just five years ago in 2014, representing growth of 182%.

This increase in scholarship support was helped by growth in the number of donors, which increased from 892 in 2017 to 1055 in 2018. Whilst still low compared to others in the sector, this is a record number of donors for Western Sydney University, which will help build the future platform for ongoing and more significant giving. Alumni donors increased by 36% on 2017, to 166 in 2018, representing 15% of total donors. Alumni gave $55,385 in cash donations in 2018.

Reflecting the passion and commitment of the University’s own staff, in 2018 the University’s payroll giving program became the national leader. A total of 506 staff made a gift through payroll, more than in any other year prior. The year ended with a participation rate of 15.9% of eligible staff in fortnightly giving.

In October 2018, the University held its second Town & Gown Gala Dinner at Rosehill Gardens. The event attracted over 950 guests, comprising the University’s industry and community partners, Alumni Awards finalists, students, and professional and academic staff from Schools, Institutes and Divisions. Over $700,000 was received from the event and will go towards the University’s health and medical research program, Western to the World. The overwhelming support received for the event was a reflection of the University’s strong relationships with its community and industry partners.

Donor relations and stewardship efforts focused on ensuring that donors have the opportunity to enjoy their giving and see first hand the impact of their generosity, particularly as it affects the University’s students, teaching and learning programs, facilities and areas of research excellence.

At the annual Scholarships Ceremony, 51 donors attended while five Prize Ceremonies allowed dozens of donors to engage with their student scholarship recipients. A Donor Thank You function was held in the historic Female Orphan School at the Parramatta South campus, and was attended by a combination of major donors, bequestors, and Foundation Council members. These events provide donors with an authentic and important opportunity to engage with students, with academics, and with University Leaders.

THE STUDENT EXPERIENCE OFFICE

The Student Experience Office (SEO) oversees all aspects of the student experience as well as managing a number of operational functions. The SEO consists of the following departments:

- Student Administration
- Student Engagement
- Student Services
- Strategy and Performance (including Student Experience Administration and Enquiries)
- Campus Safety and Security

STUDENT ADMINISTRATION

Student Administration is responsible for admissions, enrolments, graduations, course data management, examinations and timetabling.

In 2018, the Admissions team processed over 50,000 applications and made approximately 28,500 offers to domestic students.

The Enrolments team facilitated approximately 22,000 commencing student enrolments and 286,000 unit enrolments for both commencing and continuing students. Additionally, there were around 56,000 enrolment transactions for advanced standing, withdrawal without academic penalty, rule waivers and course variations.

8,064 students graduated in 2018, with 4,559 in April, 2,410 in September and 1,095 in December.
The Course Data Management team (CDM) implemented 1,100 curriculum proposals, including 16 new courses, 201 course variations and 180 new units. Additionally, CDM is supporting the 21C Curriculum development Project through course changes and introducing Learning Pods.

In 2018, the Examinations unit was responsible for 152,045 examination sittings. The unit also processed 263,762 results, 20,934 progression outcomes and 16,934 review of grades.

The Timetabling Team scheduled over 21,500 classes, processed approximately 3,500 timetable changes and 26,300 casual room bookings. A key achievement in 2018 was hosting a ‘timetablers’ conference from across Asia-Pacific and consolidating the casual room bookings into the new Resource Booker platform.

STUDENT ENGAGEMENT

The Student Engagement team is a new team responsible for enhancing the level of engagement that students have with Western Sydney University. It includes Peer Assisted Study Sessions (PASS), Student Representation, Campus Life, The Chaplaincy, Mental Health and Wellbeing, Orientation, Transition Success and MATES.

In 2018, 140 student PASS facilitators, including 10 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students, delivered 3,105 PASS sessions in the Autumn and Spring sessions, totalling to 3,105 contact hours. Students who attended five or more hours of PASS in the Autumn session achieved on average 11.5 grade points higher and were 16% more likely to progress in their course. The program was awarded a University Citation for Outstanding Contributions to Student Learning, and facilitator Betty Nguyen received an Australasian Peer Leader Award, for Outstanding Senior Leader.

The Student Representation and Participation (SR&P) team supported six formal student councils, 24 student equity collectives, the student newspaper, and over 100 student clubs. In total, SR&P mentored approximately 150 Student Representatives, Equity Officers, Club Officers and Student Editors, to ensure a strong student voice across the University.

The Campus Life team delivered 4,049 events across multiple campuses with 157,737 student attendees. Additionally, 28,615 attended the SSAF funded breakfasts. A total of 9,988 students registered for Orientation sessions in 2018. An Orientation Exit Survey was conducted and 84% of participating students indicated that they were satisfied or very satisfied with their orientation experience.

The Transition Success team conducted 41 campaigns in 2018, with over 25,700 students contacted. This number includes ‘at risk’ interventions and resignation campaigns.

The MATES program (Mentoring and Transition Equals Success) continued to expand with 118 mentors and 1,276 mentees with the International College also participating during terms 2 and 3.

Throughout 2018, the Chaplaincy service cultivated and leveraged an array of community partnerships (religious professionals, churches, temples, mosques, community service organizations) for the benefit of students. These took the form of personal spiritual support, group discussions and various forms of hospitality so as to facilitate a greater sense of belonging and creating community for students. Throughout the year, the Chaplaincy service prepared around 400 nutritious and free meals per week across five campuses. These have been opportunities for study support while, at the same time, developing social connection, lowering anxiety and contributing to a more balanced diet.

STRATEGY AND PERFORMANCE, STUDENT EXPERIENCE ADMINISTRATION AND ENQUIRIES

In 2018, the Strategy and Performance team launched Western You and the Voice of Student (VoS) as significant student experience initiatives. These programs enable students to provide constructive feedback throughout their journey at the University.

A total of 2,500 students registered with Western You, a student research community and panel, in its first three months of operation. The Western You inaugural survey was active for two months with 1,120 respondents. Results showed that 86% of respondents are happy about being a Western Sydney University student and 83% are proud of what they are doing at the University.

The VoS is a University-wide experience program, aimed at measuring experiences in real-time at critical student interactions. The pilot launched in October 2018 with selected Student Central interactions and partnered with the School of Nursing and Midwifery for select nursing student interactions. There will be a comprehensive rollout of this program in 2019.

The Student Experience Administration and Enquiries SEAE team continue to implement process improvements including significant change and improvement to the results process.
The Student Welfare Team provided ongoing concerns for students. Support (57% of Welfare presentations), of Disability presentations) with academic support (37% of Counselling presentations and 47% of Disability presentations) with academic support (57% of Welfare presentations), physical mobility and financial assistance being ongoing concerns for students.

Key achievements for the Wellbeing Service are:
- The Student Welfare Team provided complex case management support for all 16 Asylum Seeker Scholarship holders;
- 159 students registered for Spring English Language Conversation groups, with 46% attending three or more sessions; and
- The First Responder Triage model was introduced by Counselling to improve service response time to students. The Western You survey identified students who experienced severe depression, anxiety and stress. The First Responder team proactively contacted 242 of these students to provide support.

Student Central, the first point of contact for student enquiries, managed 155,693 phone calls, 106,760 face-to-face transactions, 82,056 email queries, answered 52,680 chats, processed 60,117 forms (including e-forms) and produced 28,294 ID cards. Student Central achieved 90% and above satisfaction levels for all communication channels, namely face-to-face, phone, email and chat.

Initiatives implemented in 2018 were:
- A New Click and Collect Student ID card service at Orientation;
- An outbound call campaign to international ‘at risk’ students;
- A google maps update of all Student Central locations;
- The development of knowledge articles for College students; and
- New enrolment and tutorial registration self-help videos.

The following are key activities performed by Campus Safety and Security in its role of providing a safe, secure and accessible environment during 2018:
- Successfully introduced a redesigned security operational structure, providing more flexibility and better on ground assistance for safety and security needs. The structure now includes a dedicated new focus on strategic business continuity and crisis management, emergency management and transport co-ordination, all of which are focused on the delivery of an outstanding student experience;
- Commenced a business impact analysis across the University, to enable a comprehensive business resilience program to be developed in 2019;
- Completed the security architecture and implemented security operations at the new Ngara Ngura building (Liverpool City campus);
- Successfully completed a tender process to partner with a commercial shuttle bus supplier. The new shuttle bus supplier will provide a commercial standard of deployment and management of shuttle bus services from 2019;
- Provided effective routine security services, including the management of three serious incidents occurring on campus under incident management protocols;
- Provided advice and investigative support for sensitive management investigations;
- Continued to improve operating procedures and practices in response to sexual assault and related behaviours, in support of the national university sector’s Respect. Now. Always. initiative;
- Continued to provide on-ground presence at each host city of the University Games to support and assistance to our participating students if required; and
- Continued to monitor the delivery of services to students during the initial on-boarding period of each session.

The Office of Employability and Graduate Success was established in March 2018. It leads the design and implementation of the University’s first ever ‘Employability’ strategy, which acknowledges that Western Sydney University students bring with them a wealth of experience, knowledge and skills that stem from participation in the world and in the Western Sydney region. The organisating framework for the new strategy is Graduate Capital – five distinct domains (human, social, cultural, identity and psychological) that can be combined in unlimited ways in order to attain success, as it is determined by the student or graduate.

Through the five capitals and an accompanying visual and interactive dashboard, students and graduates will be given five different areas from which they can speak about their unique experiences, knowledge and skills. The Office of Employability and Graduate Success accredits traditional, labour market ready capitals that enhance student employability outcomes and represents them visually on a dashboard. Through this, value will be given to the immense, non-conventional capitals that are the keystones for success in Western Sydney.

Widespread engagement has taken place in 2018 to ensure the Graduate Capital model has application in the current and uncertain future labour market. In 2019, development is planned for the Capital Framework, dashboard and Experience Map portfolio, along with a dedicated industry insights feed and link to options and opportunities to build new and further existing capitals based on the experiences of individuals.

The Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President (Research and Innovation) is responsible for the leadership of the Graduate Research School, the Research Engagement Development and Innovation Unit, Centralised Research Facilities and the University’s five Research Institutes.

The Division’s strategic priority is being a research-led university with regional, national and global impact.

The Division delivers the leadership, framework and support for research outcomes within four interdisciplinary research themes:

- Urban Living Futures and Society: people, culture, economy and the built environment
- Health and Wellbeing: translation, integration and innovation
- Education and Work: access, education and pathways
- Environment and Sustainability: climate, agriculture and liveability.

In 2018, the Division launched and consolidated the University’s 2018-2020 Research and Innovation Plan. This plan articulates the University-wide research support through two core strategies:

- Capacity: investment in Research Institutes; identifying and supporting emerging cohorts of research strength; research-led recruitment; support and advice to Institutes, Schools and research centres to grow external income.
- Impact and Quality: empowering researchers’ independence and accountability; fostering purposeful collaborations across the University and with national and international partners; establishing consistent quality metrics that guide researchers and, as an institution, increasing the quality of our publications; researching relevant career planning and clear performance expectations for academic staff; celebrating the University’s research achievements and its researchers; delivering benefits to communities and partners, both nationally and internationally.

RESEARCH THEMES

The Division continued to support research under the University’s four Research Themes encouraged by the Research Theme Champions and the Research Theme Fellows.

In 2018, two new Research Theme Champions were appointed. Professor Virginia Schmied from the School of Nursing and Midwifery was appointed as Research Theme Champion for Health and Wellbeing, replacing Professor Caroline Smith, who stepped down due to her appointment to the role of Dean of the Graduate Studies.

Associate Professor Danielle Tracey from the School of Education was appointed as the new Research Theme Champion for Education and Work, replacing Professor Kath Holmes who completed her tenure as Research Theme Champion.

SECTORAL ENGAGEMENT

In May 2018, the Standing Committee on Employment, Education and Training launched the Inquiry into Funding Australia’s Research. After University wide consultation, the Division developed and submitted the University’s response. On 7 August 2018, the Division further represented the University at the Parliamentary Roundtable discussions.

In July 2018, the Medical Research Future Fund opened the consultation process on its 2018-2020 Priorities. The Division consulted across the University, delivering a submission and also feeding into the Innovation Research Universities (IRU) response. Responses to the consultation informed the MRFF’s November 2018 submission to Parliament.

STRATEGIC RESEARCH INITIATIVES

The burgeoning areas of research capacity across the University were supported this year through the call for new Strategic Research Initiatives (SRIs). The SRIs draw on developing and established cohorts of cross disciplinary strength. SRIs are funded for up to five years and will engage in co-designed research with industry partners in order to arrive at impactful outcomes. Of the 22 Expressions of Interest that were initially received, six SRI bids progressed to stage two assessments. Three of these were funded:

- The International Centre for Neuromorphic Systems (ICNS) – situated within MARCS
- The Young and Resilient SRI – situated within ICS
- Transforming Early Education and Child Health (TeEACH) – situated within the School of Nursing and Midwifery

Each of these SRIs is cross-disciplinary, drawing on researchers from across the University.

RESEARCH AND WESTERN GROWTH

In 2018, the draft research plan for the new Bankstown campus was developed in consultation with key stakeholders. It was circulated for discussion in November.

Hassall Street Engineering Hub partnership discussions commenced. Initial plans for further research partnerships with UNSW were presented to the UNSW’s Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Research), Professor Nick Fisk, with review and development of these plans to continue in 2019.
EXECUTIVE EDUCATION

An Executive Education strategy was developed called WesternXeD, which launched its website and developed a small suite of programs in 2018. Further programs are planned for 2019.

INDIAN DELEGATION

In November 2018, the Division was part of the University’s delegation to India. The research focus of this trip centred on the areas of Horticulture and Neuromorphic Engineering. The ICNS SRI was announced during a visit to the Indian Institute for Science (IISc) Bangalore, along with the International ICNS/ IISc Alliance through which Western committed to a program of visiting fellowships and research partnerships.

LGBTIQ RESEARCH

An audit of current and planned research was conducted into the issues affecting Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, Intersex and Questioning (LGBTIQ) communities in the period from September 2017 to the end of January 2018.

DISTINGUISHED PROFESSORS

A Distinguished Professors honorary award was established, with eight Distinguished Professors appointed in the initial round. Deputy Vice-Chancellors, Deans, Institute Directors, Pro Vice-Chancellors, or other Distinguished Professors are all eligible to nominate new awardees. These honours were announced at the Professorial Dinner held in October 2018, with the awardees to be presented a Distinguished Professor medal at the April graduation ceremonies in 2019.

QUALITY FORUM

On 9 November 2018, the Division of Research and Innovation, for the first time, hosted the University’s 2018 Quality Forum. The theme for the day was Excellence, Impact & Reputation. More than 150 academic and professional staff members across all Schools and Divisions attended. The keynote address was delivered by the NSW Chief Scientist and Engineer, Professor Hugh Durrant-Whyte. The outcomes and discussions from the Forum have been included in the Division of Research and Innovation 2019 planning.

AWARDS AND RECOGNITION

Western Sydney University researchers, Dr Kate Umbers and Dr Genevieve Steiner, were awarded the prestigious 2018 Young Tall Poppy Science Award – presented to Australia’s leading young scientific researchers and communicators. Presented by the Australian Institute of Policy and Science (AIPS), the award recognises excellence in early career research, alongside a passion and capacity to communicate science to the community.

Four Western Sydney University researchers have been ranked in the top one per cent globally after earning a place on the Clarivate Analytics 2018 Highly Cited Researcher list – identifying them as among the world’s most influential scientists.

Professor Wei Xing Zheng from the School of Computing, Engineering and Mathematics, Professors Belinda Medlyn and Peter Reich, and Associate Professor Brendan Choat from the Hawkesbury Institute for the Environment (HIE), are part of the influential group of 245 researchers who contributed to Australia’s overall citation ranking of fifth out of 60 nations this year.

RESEARCH CELEBRATION

The Division hosted a Research Celebration event on 13 November 2018. This informal occasion acknowledged and celebrated the work of our researchers. It recognised grant success, industry partnerships, publication and supervision achievements as well as service to University efforts such as the ERA and EIA submission.
Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President (Research and Innovation)

RESEARCH ENGAGEMENT, DEVELOPMENT AND INNOVATION (REDI)

Diversifying research income and increasing the impact and quality of its research are the goals of Western Sydney University’s research strategy.

RESEARCH INCOME

Continued investment in diversifying the University’s research income is crucial to the University’s research income stability, and, equally importantly, affords the University’s researchers the opportunity to apply their research findings and expertise in the broader community. The University continues to substantially exceed the sector in research income growth, achieving an average growth rate of 12.2% p.a. for the period 2013-2017 compared with the sector average of 2.6% for the same period. This growth has come within the context of tightening competitive grant funding and a stable internal funding envelope for research activity. The major driver of the increase in revenue is our collaborative research activity. This is research with industry and government partners and over the 2013-2017 period, income from these sources has grown 20% year on year and now represents 60% of the University’s income mix up from 45% in 2013.

EXCELLENCE AND IMPACT

During 2018, the University completed both the Excellence in Research Australia (ERA) 2018 submission and the first Full Engagement and Impact Assessment (EIA).

The development of the ERA 2018 submission was an excellent example of inter-unit collaboration with guidance provided by all Schools and Institutes, supported by ITDS, Library Services and REDI. Over 90 researchers across eight cluster groups were involved and demonstrated outstanding collegiality in their approach.

Key submission data:
- 60 4-digit Fields of Research (FoR) assessed (up from 55 in ERA 2015), consisting of:
  - 30 Citation disciplines and 30 Peer Review disciplines
  - 7 new fields that were not assessed in ERA 2015
  - 2 fields assessed in ERA 2015 will not be assessed in ERA 2018
- 20 of 22 2-digit FoR codes (no change from ERA 2015)
- 13,178 research outputs (2011-2016) a growth of 23% on ERA 2015
- Research income of $85,542,606 (2014-2016) a growth of 39.6% on ERA 2015
- 1,016.5 FTE, (1,464 headcount) a growth of 23% on ERA 2015.

A full Research Engagement and Impact Assessment was carried out in 2018. This assessment comprised 21 engagement narratives and 23 impact case studies, with outcomes of the assessment to be released mid-2019. The case studies covered 20 of the 22 2-digit field of research (FoR) codes, with FoR 11 Medical and Health Sciences split into 2 submissions to cater for the breadth of the field, plus a multidisciplinary case study and an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander research impact case study. Western Sydney University did not make the volume threshold for FoR 04 Earth Sciences and FoR 10 Technology.

The case studies were co-developed between the research group and REDI, with writing support provided by external consultants. Each of the case studies was submitted to multiple reviews from an Impact Evaluation Panel.

The material captured for these case studies was utilised to create the first edition of the Future Makers magazine, with over 1500 copies being distributed to industry and government partners, politicians and funders.

COMPETITIVE FUNDING AND INDUSTRY PARTNERSHIPS

Western Sydney University has attracted over $10 million in new ARC and NHMRC grants commencing in 2019. REDI, through the Grant Development Support Strategy, has been working to improve the success rates of the University’s researchers in the intensely competitive ARC and NH&MRC funding rounds. While there is still a need for improvement across many schemes, the 29% success rate achieved for the important ARC Discovery Project scheme is a significant improvement on the 18.6% achieved in 2017, and is well above the sector average of 22%.

Announced in April 2018, Western Sydney University is a key partner of the Digital Health CRC with the University’s Associate Professor Federico Girosi named as Chief Scientist and Director of Research of the Centre, and Professor Athula Ginige named as research theme co-leader. Participants include 40 commercial and government organisations operating across the health, aged care and disability sectors, 24 established and start-up technology, advisory and investment companies, and 16 Australian universities.

A major bids team has been established in REDI led by the Associate Director REDI and combining members of the REDI Business and REDI Grants teams. They have worked on 14 bids in 2018 with 1 successful and 6 still under consideration with announcements expected in 2019.

To assist in facilitating industry partnerships and enabling our researchers to understand how to best engage with industry, REDI held an Industry Masterclass in July 2018, with 40 attendees from across Western Schools and Institutes; as well as eight industry partners from:
- KPMG

- IBM
- Landcom
- GE Healthcare
- AustCyber
- METS Ignited

and representatives from two industry growth centres.
This Masterclass has led to follow-up meetings between industry partners, Schools and Institutes, with Landcom signing as a partner for the Housing Affordability CoE.

An MoU was also signed with the Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR) university members (5 universities), and ICICI Foundation and Ministry of Rural Development under which, through a joint program including an 18 months’ scholarship, the University will support 27 PhD students in 2019 and 20 in 2020.

ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER LEADERSHIP

The number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff members employed at the University is 62 as at 4 December, 2018. Of these, 3% hold senior staff positions, 21% are academic staff and 79% are professional staff. Higher degree students, including PhD and Masters students, continue to be targeted for transition into Early Career Academic roles where available. The 2014 Academic and Professional Staff Agreement objective of employing sixty-two Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees has been met.

The annual Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Staff Conference was held at the Parramatta campus and included Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff across Divisions, Schools and Institutes. Staff participated in the discussion on Western Sydney University strategy, policy development, mentoring and the next steps in agreeing activities for 2019 and beyond. The University’s Elders on Campus also joined the conference to conduct team mentoring exercises. Over the course of the year, coaching and mentoring services were accessed by nine Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander staff. Of these, eight requested support to develop professional CVs and summary biographies. These services are also made available to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students transitioning to employment. Two Vice-Chancellor’s Professional Development Scholarships were awarded in 2018.

During 2017, a number of policies were created or revised to meet the University’s aspirations for cultural competency and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander education and employment. The Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Cultural Protocols in the Workplace; the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Education policy; and the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples Employment policy were implemented in 2018. These new and revised policies continue to be benchmarked against those of other universities, the activities of Universities Australia, government initiatives, and measures adopted in other large organisations.

ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER EMPLOYMENT AND ENGAGEMENT

With respect for Aboriginal cultural protocol and out of recognition that its campuses occupy their traditional lands, Western Sydney University acknowledges the Darug, Tharawal (also historically referred to as Dharrawal), Cabrogal, Wiradjuri and Bundjalung peoples and thanks them for their support of its work on their lands, Greater Western Sydney and beyond.

The University recognises the importance of the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities in Greater Western Sydney and beyond and continues its efforts to increase their representation and participation in education, research and employment.

The Western Sydney University Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Employment and Engagement Advisory Board, which includes 22 Elders on Campus, supports the advancement of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people in employment, engagement and other University-related activities. Since the 2017 Vice-Chancellor’s report to the Board of Trustees, the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Elders on Campus have engaged in 85 ‘Welcome to Country’ addresses and numerous other celebratory and ceremonial activities across Schools, Institutes, Divisions and affiliated organisations during 2018.

The 2018 National Aboriginal and Islander Day Observance Committee (NAIDOC) theme was “Because of her, we can”. As part of NAIDOC Week celebrations at the University, all staff and students were invited to take part in the annual NAIDOC Week Quiz. The quiz attracted nine eligible entries, with both staff and students winning prizes.

The second series of the acclaimed photographic exhibition Too Dark to See was completed and installed in the Ngara Ngura building (Liverpool City campus). This exhibition continues the journey of Too Dark to See by commemorating the lives and contribution of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Defence personnel.

In July 2018, the annual Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Staff Network Conference was held at Parramatta. Invitations went out to all identified Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees in the staff network.

A total of 40 staff attended the conference on Day 1 and a further 30 staff attended on Day 2. Western Sydney University Elders on Campus participated in the two-day conference that engaged participants in strategic discussion and planning focused on portfolio achievements, commitments and priorities; MyVoice Survey results and next steps; and professional development, leadership and career planning.

In collaboration with the Elders On Campus, the Office of the PVC Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Leadership and the Office of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Employment and Engagement OATSEE, Western Sydney University opened the ‘Aunty Mae Foyer’ on the ground floor of Western Sydney University’s Ngara Ngura building in Liverpool CBD. The naming of the foyer in November 2018 recognised the contribution to education of Aunty Mae (Mavis) Robinson, a descendant of the Yuin and Kamilaroi people and long-time resident of Western Sydney.

BADANAMI CENTRE

The number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students at the University has been increasing steadily since 2012. In 2018, there were more than 733 students who identified as being of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander descent, an increase of 10% from 2017. Of these, 17 are currently Higher Degree Research (HDR) scholars and another 41 are enrolled in Master Degrees by Coursework, of which 22 are enrolled in Master of Teaching programs. The Badanami Centre continues to provide programs, services and facilities to encourage and support the involvement of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples in all aspects of tertiary education. Badanami operates on most Western Sydney University campuses. Badanami continues to administer the government funded Tutoring for Success (TFS) program – a program that facilitates successful subject and course completion. The TFS program assisted more than 288 Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students with tuition support during 2018.
INTERNATIONAL

In 2018, Western Sydney International expanded the University’s international reach and reputation through institutional partnerships, increased global student mobility, and greater offshore recruitment teams and scholarships.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT EXPERIENCE

International established the Vice-Chancellor’s International Student Advisory Committee in 2018, with international student members from diverse countries and programs. The Committee met three times to advance international students’ interests and experiences. With the Vice-Chancellor as Chair, student members represent peers and ensure the Executive is informed and responsive to relevant issues.

The Ready for Western game piloted, helping international students to acclimate. Over 1,000 undertook 42 online and on-campus challenges over six weeks in Autumn and Spring sessions.

Students completed on average 15 challenges, and 88% were confident in navigating around campus as a result. 89% knew what to expect in class, and 84% knew about University programs and services. Ready for Western will again run in Autumn 2019.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT BAROMETER 2018

The University participates in the i-Graduate International Student Barometer (ISB) survey every even year. In 2018, 144 universities in 17 countries participated. The ISB benchmarks international student experience factors, including arrival, learning, and support.

The overall satisfaction rate increased (88%–91%, 2016–2018), and average satisfaction rose (83.6%–86.9%, 2016–2018).

INTERCHANGE 2018

The University partnered with StudyNSW and seven universities to lead international students through a month-long intensive innovation and design thinking process. Over 250 students participated in Interchange 2018, including 45 from the University.

Interchange challenges teams to solve ‘real-world’ problems and develop critical skills, including innovation and leadership. Interchange also develops student creativity, resilience, and agility.

The University’s Risk Index has significantly improved in the four years since implementing a Genuine Temporary Entrant (GTE) screening process.

In 2018, International delivered GTE training to agents in Delhi, Dhaka, Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh City, Hyderabad, Jakarta, Kathmandu, Manila, and Phnom Penh, and training in Colombo to representatives from Pakistan and Sri Lanka.

WESTERN SYDNEY UNIVERSITY INTERNATIONAL COLLEGE

Western Sydney University International College (WSUIC) is a joint venture with Navitas, an educational service provider in the international market. WSUIC provides international students with pathway courses to access Western Sydney University’s degree programs.

WSUIC improved its financial performance in 2018 compared to 2017 on November 2018 figures with a significant growth in the number of commencing students: 418 in 2018 compared to 357 in 2017. Planning in 2019 focuses on market diversification and agent management to improve recruitment outcomes and address student load shortfalls. Year to date revenues (as at February 2019) are strong, and compare favourably with the same time last year. WSUIC expects to make its first profit by financial year end.

CENTRE FOR WESTERN SYDNEY

The Centre for Western Sydney generates high quality, independent research on the condition of Western Sydney as Australia’s largest site of urban and population growth.

The Centre’s major 2018 activity was a collaboration with WSROC (Western Sydney Regional Organisation of Councils) on the Turn Down the Heat Initiative. The release of WSROC’s Turn Down the Heat report was the product of close consultation with a number of stakeholders, often facilitated by the Centre through in-kind resources. The launch of the report was held at the Peter Shergold building.

Coordinated with WSROC’s report launch, the Centre created a website showcasing the University’s research on urban heat mitigation: https://www.westernsydney.edu.au/cws/UrbanHeat. The Centre worked closely with a number of Western researchers to summarise their research findings and produce work aimed at a lay audience, forming the content of the site. This Urban Heat material forms part of the Centre’s Policy Briefing series. The series translates Western’s policy-relevant research into short, impactful briefs that target policy practitioners and community members. An expansion of this series alongside increased staffing resources is planned for 2019.
The Centre’s partnership with Australia’s leading data provider dot id: The Population Experts (http://home.id.com.au/) expanded in 2018, with the Centre assisting the University in the procurement of new population forecasting data to model future student demand. The Centre for Western Sydney’s .id website continues to be a crucial source of reliable information on the Western Sydney region.

The Centre’s Jobs Slide report is the leading public report on the connection between transport infrastructure and the Western Sydney jobs. Throughout 2018 the Centre has worked closely with .id to produce Jobs Slide 2.0, an update to the original report that explores the nature of recent jobs growth in Western Sydney and the sustainability of that growth. Jobs Slide 2.0 will be released in 2019.

The Director of the Centre, Professor Phillip O’Neill, accepted the role of Provost, Bankstown City Campus. Professor O’Neill has led the development of engagement activities focused on integrating the University with the social and economic development of the Canterbury-Bankstown local government area. These activities will be supported with new staffing resources in 2019.

The Centre’s Director, Professor Phillip O’Neill continues to be prominent in traditional and social media channels alongside maintaining teaching commitments and ongoing Australian Research Council research grants.

The Planning Proposal was submitted to Council in quarter 4 2018. The proposal reflects the opportunities afforded by Government announcements regarding the North-South rail line and Aerotropolis.
- Werrington Retail Centre: a development application was lodged with Council and approved in quarter 4 2018. With the securing of the anchor tenant and significant pre-commit, leasing templates for specialty retailers have been finalised.
- Engineering Innovation Hub: a joint venture arrangement has been finalised with Charter Hall for the development of an Innovation Hub at 6 Hassall St Parramatta. The University has set up a controlled entity, Western Growth Developments (Innovation Hub Parramatta), for the purpose of purchasing the land, carrying out the proposed development, and operating the asset in partnership with Charter Hall. The land purchase was executed on 31 August 2018. The University will occupy approx. 6,000 sqm for engineering and architecture disciplines, and associated research. Planning for University fitout requirements is underway.

- CLV buy back: negotiations on original sale of student accommodation management rights were completed in June. Successful completion of the transaction was achieved, providing:
  - Greater flexibility and control over student accommodation; and
  - Finalisation of outstanding settlements.

Council has written to advise of the commencement of the compulsory acquisition process of road reserve for Quakers Road upgrade.
- Nirimba freehold sale: following the successful rezoning to residential of a freehold parcel of land adjoining the Nirimba Education Precinct in 2017, the Board of Trustees approved the sale lot in late 2017. An EOI process was undertaken and a sale agreement has been executed. Settlement is due to occur in April 2019.
- Lodgment of planning and development proposals for the campus redevelopment projects (Parramatta North, Campbelltown Stage 6, Werrington), with the team focused on monitoring and engaging with local councils, state government agencies and other stakeholders, as well as firming up delivery plans for each project, in anticipation of implementation of the next stage.
- Retail, Food and Beverage: the University has further enhanced the student experience on a number of campuses by adding new retail outlets. These include: Piccolo Me (the Peter Shergold Building, Hawkesbury campus); Three Cows (Kingswood); and continuing with on campus food trucks (Bankstown, Hawkesbury, Nirimba). These continue to enable a diverse product offering and various price points catering to specific student demographics.
- Commercial tenancy: a new lease with the Nepean Hockey Association will see upgrades to the Kingswood pitch; secured sub-lease with Western Sydney Community Forum for Level 9 100 George and lease with Ambulance NSW at Werrington Park Corporate Centre.

STRATEGIC PROCUREMENT AND SERVICES

The primary purpose of the Office of Strategic Procurement and Services is to ensure University monies are spent wisely and without significant risk exposure. The governance processes that the team are aligned to are those set by NSW Government procurement guidelines.

2018 was the start of a new centralised procurement team as part of the Shared Services restructure. The team is larger and better aligned to the University’s departments, providing support across the whole organisation and improving awareness and compliance with the procurement policy.

Key achievements in 2018 include:

CATEGORY MANAGEMENT SUPPORT
- Recruitment to all vacant positions was completed in March 2018. With the team fully staffed, the team has built on the initial Shared Services framework to deliver a service that supports the University’s strategic goals.
- Aligned sourcing Category Managers to University functions.
- Introduced benefits tracking and reporting.
- Established Minor Works, Consulting and Legal supplier panels.
- Identified the functional requirements for a Contract Lifecycle Management system and an extended Asset Management system for scientific equipment.

PROCUREMENT OPERATIONAL SERVICES
- Operational review leading to streamlined delivery of new centralised services associated with the Motor Vehicle Fleet, Pool Car Systems and Novated Leases.
- Delivered University Wide Strategic/Operational Procurement, Asset and Equipment Process and Service awareness sessions.
- Increased staff raising requisitions transacting to purchase orders for goods and services.
- Introduced purchase order compliance reporting.

BENEFITS DELIVERED THROUGH SOURCING ACTIVITIES

Cost benefits exceeding $4m per annum have been delivered across a wide range of areas:
- Cleaning
- Shuttle buses and charter buses
- Data storage, data domain hardware and software renewals
- Software licensing
- Consulting services
- Novated car leases
- CO₂ gas and construction services.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY AND DIGITAL SERVICES

Operating across all campuses, Information Technology and Digital Services (ITDS) is a vital enabler of Western’s Securing Success Strategy and the ITDS Future Now – Securing Digital Success strategy. ITDS provides and supports the applications, infrastructure, information and end user services that connect the University community locally, nationally and internationally. The purpose of ITDS is to advance the use of digital technologies, serving the needs of the Western Sydney University community with student experience, learning, teaching and research as our focus. The vision of ITDS is to create a future where we are known for service, excellence, insight and innovation.

Western Sydney University students, staff and community partners use technologies to communicate, collaborate, research, learn, teach and conduct business. Increasingly, these activities are expected to be available at any time and any place, balancing the considerable challenge of privacy and security with flexibility and agility. Achievement of ITDS goals will require defined quality processes, combined with measured risk taking through iterative experimentation, prototyping, collaboration and innovation. ITDS has developed a solid reputation for service improvement and will build on this success to deliver practices and processes that ensure improved service reliability, cost effectiveness, sustainability, quality and security of University systems and technology solutions. This will be underpinned by ITDS values, that commit to acting ethically, responsibly and collaboratively.
It has been another fulfilling year for ITDS, actively supporting the key priorities of the University, most notably the new Ngura building (Liverpool City campus) and the Para-medicine immersive space at Campbelltown. The Shared Services Program had a major impact on the structure and responsibilities of ITDS, with a number of teams moving into other areas, and approximately 40 staff joining ITDS from various parts of the organisation including several Schools, Human Resources, Finance, Student Experience Office and Business Intelligence. As a result, ITDS offers an expanded range of services including functional support, application management and infrastructure services.

In 2018, ITDS delivered a number of projects addressing key strategic objectives. This list does not include the support provided to the broader capital works programme for which the collaboration between ITDS and OEC is very strong. Notable in 2018 achievements include:

- Implementation of the new Integrated Workspace and Management System to support the work of OEC, replacing the legacy Archibus system and transforming business processes; and
- Introduction and implementation of an ITDS Risk Management process which assists in protecting our information assets, minimising uncertainty and informing better decisions.

In addition, significant progress has been made on our two major system initiatives – the Student Management Systems replacement (Ellucian) and the new Research Management System. Both of these projects are expected to achieve major milestones in 2019.

The day-to-day operational stability of ITDS services is of paramount importance and 2018 was a good year from a service performance perspective. The ITDS Service Desk receives up to 8,000 contacts per month and they continue to answer and address matters in very timely fashion. The number of critical incidents has been low and the University’s cyber-security posture improving with no major issues arising, although there is a need to remain on high alert in this area. These activities include:

- Supporting, enhancing and reforming the application portfolio and maintaining appropriate access and availability for authorised users;
- Maintaining and enhancing the communications infrastructure (networks, telephony and wireless) which connect end users to each other and the outside world;
- Providing the general-purpose computing laboratories used by students and the computing services used by staff, including service desk and end user support;
- Upgrading and managing the audio-visual systems used for teaching and collaboration, including next-generation learning spaces and web conferencing;
- Securing the University network from cyber threats and promoting good online practices by staff and students; and
- Providing functional support and business process knowledge in key areas that include HR, Finance, Student Systems and the Learning Management ecosystem.

Given the importance of digital transformation combined with the pace of technological change, ITDS has been redefining itself strategically. The updated ITDS Future Now strategy sets out six core objectives which will be used to guide the technological direction of the University. These objectives provide broad measures of success to meet the ‘consistently contemporary’ mission of ITDS. They are:

- Enhancing the Digital Experience;
- Facilitating World Class Research;
- Promoting University Engagement;
- Building Digital Capability;
- Powering Up Innovation; and,
- Focusing on the Business of Information Technology.

PROJECT MANAGEMENT OFFICE

The Project Management Office (PMO) provides organisational leadership in portfolio, program and project management.

The primary objective of the Project Management Office is to support the University to operate as an efficient, agile and cost effective organisation which is ready to face current and future challenges.

The Project Management Office is a central unit designed to provide leadership to the University in the discipline of Project Management, and to manage and support broad transformational projects across the University. The Project Management Office provides a variety of project support services to, initiatives, programs, and individual projects across the organisation, that support best practice execution of project management to deliver successful project outcomes.

The Project Management Office was restructured, with the new structure commencing at the beginning of 2018 to enable a comprehensive offering in project management capability and excellence, with approximately half of the team being newly recruited in 2018.

Key responsibilities for the PMO include:

- Project Capability - including methodologies, processes, project assurance, training, coaching, tools, and templates.
- Project delivery - comprising the delivery of capital construction projects including new buildings, civil infrastructure, facility fit-out and renovation, to support the University’s research, training and learning outcomes.
- Project portfolio services - including the establishment and facilitation of project governance, business case development and assessment, project portfolio planning and ancillary end-to-end project support functions.
- Business improvement and transformation - to support the ongoing improvement of University operations (e.g. Shared Services), including capability for process mapping, continuous improvement methodologies and leadership of transformation and change programs.

2018 ACHIEVEMENTS

Key achievements in 2018 include:

Ongoing Shared Services Support

The Shared Services program was a University-wide program to deliver professional services for Institutes and Schools through a shared services delivery model. The primary purpose of this program was to ensure professional services are delivered in an effective, efficient and sustainable manner.

Through 2018, the professional services impacted by the Shared Services program have been continuing to mature and are transitioning into a Business-as-Usual way of working. Ongoing support for Shared Services is continuing from the Project Management Office, including reporting, Service Agreement development, business process mapping, and an overall governance framework.

A Post-Implementation Review was undertaken in Quarter 2, and provided a series of insights regarding the program. The review found that while there were no fundamental design flaws, there was substantial ongoing need for support and improvements as the new modes of delivery matured.

Other key achievements include:

- Establishment of ongoing service assurance and governance
- Development of key service Agreements and supporting process mapping
- Establishment of service improvement initiatives, including the Strategic Review of the Enterprise Service Management Platform.

Project Management

The PMO continued the development of a fit-for-purpose Project Management framework and methodology for the University, including the release of the Projects @ Western project management framework. Other achievements include:

- Establishment of training courses, a community of practice, coaching, and mentoring
- An overall assurance framework, including health checks of Western Growth
- The project management handbook
- A new project pipeline and planning process
- A consistent approach to project reporting.

Western Growth Program Management

The Project Management Office provided leadership and support for the Program Management of the Western Growth Program, with the provision of Governance and Assurance support for individual projects comprising the overall strategic program.

Delivery of key Capital Projects

The Project Management Office led the delivery of key capital projects in 2018.

Delivery of the capital works portfolio included key iconic projects, such as the partially renovated Building J at Westmead for NICM, the Kingswood Building Z extension for SCEM, and the Hawkesbury M1 building for HIE. The R Precinct project at Hawkesbury is ongoing and will facilitate the relocation of various teams from Werrington North.

Other achievements include the delivery of a suite of minor tier 2 capital projects.

Business Improvement

The Project Management Office established a key business improvement capability, to support the ongoing improvement of University operations (e.g. Shared Services), including capability for process mapping, continuous improvement methodologies and leadership of transformation and change programs.

OBLIGATIONS UNDER THE GIPA ACT

1. Review of proactive release program – Clause 7(a)
Under section 7 of the Government Information (Public Access) Act (GIPA Act), agencies must review their programs for releasing government information, to identify the kinds of information that can be made publicly available. This review must be undertaken at least once every 12 months.

The University’s program for proactively releasing information is based on the annual meeting of the GIPA Agency Information Guide Review Committee (AIGRC). The Committee includes representatives from across the University and reviews:
- updates to the University’s Agency Information Guide webpage;
- new areas or initiatives that could be included in the Agency Information Guide as part of engendering a corporate culture of transparency and accountability; and
- any initiatives that may educate and guide various sections and units of the University to proactively publish information that is of interest and value to the public.

The Committee discharges the University’s responsibilities under section 7(3) of the Act. The Committee’s structure has changed and the Shared Service model will offer further opportunities for the pro-active release of information.

The University’s agency information guide is functional and was last reviewed in December 2018.

2. Number of access applications received – Clause 7(b)
During the reporting period, the University received eight formal access applications, down from 13 in the previous year.

3. Number of refused applications for Schedule 1 information – Clause 7(c)
During the reporting period, the University did not refuse any formal access applications because none of the information requested was referred to in Schedule 1 to the GIPA Act.

4. Statistical information about access applications – Clause 7(d) and Schedule 2

WORK HEALTH AND SAFETY (WHS)

The primary objective of the Work Health and Safety (WHS) Unit is to provide high-quality in-house work health, safety, and risk consultancy services to the University in a timely and efficient manner, whilst remaining cognizant of legislative requirements. The WHS Unit also develops and manages the University’s Work Health and Safety Management System.

2018 achievements included:

During 2018, the CRU managed 204 complaints and advised on a further 328 matters that were dealt with by managers in the various academic and administrative units of the University.

Where appropriate, CRU provided feedback and advice on policies and processes as a result of issues arising from complaints. Staff members of the Unit shared their expertise in complaints handling, providing advice within the sector.

The University’s privacy obligations primarily fall under the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998 (NSW) (PPIPA) and the Health Records and Information Privacy Act 2002 (NSW) (HRIPA). However, the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) also applies to the University in some respects.

In 2018, the University published its revised Privacy Policy and Privacy Management Plan, and launched an online privacy training module. The module is compulsory for all staff and completion rates are reported to the University’s Audit and Risk Committee. The privacy module is also available for postgraduate students to complete if it is a requirement of their course.

In 2018, the Privacy Officer conducted two internal reviews in response to unrelated privacy complaints from students. The Privacy Officer submitted the outcome of the internal reviews to the NSW Privacy Commissioner in accordance with PPIPA. The Privacy Officer responded to, and facilitated the containment of, eight other privacy breaches, the majority of which were due to human error and involved emails being sent to the incorrect addressee. None of these matters were notifiable under State or Federal legislation. The Privacy Officer responded to four matters which did not constitute breaches of privacy and provided advice on 42 other matters.
