Aiding fire recovery:
Simply Living convenor Francis Mackay (Winmalee) and group members Susan Price and Susan Templeman are getting behind the project.

A massive recovery plant sale at Winmalee Public School this Saturday (September 13), will not only bring spring to local gardens but will also help raise funds for last year’s bushfire victims. Evolving out of a University of Western Sydney (UWS) project titled “Our Place”, the Blue Mountains Simply Living community group has set out to help fire-affected and other residents get back into their gardens.

There will be a large range of plants for sale and demonstrations of compost and worm farming. The bushfire recovery book, “As the Smoke Clears” will also be for sale.

Simply Living group convenor, Francis Mackay, said a small grant from UWS, under the program led by Professor Margaret Somerville, had made the project possible.

“Gardening is a great way to get people to think about their local environment, particularly their soil and biodiversity,” Mr Mackay said.

“And especially for fire-affected residents, this is a way to inspire and encourage appreciation of the environment around their homes that was saved a year ago.”

“We will have vegetable, flower and herb seedlings, fruit trees, natives and exotics, and all proceeds from the sale will go to the Blue Mountains Mayoral Relief Fund,” he said.

Mr Mackay thanked Winmalee Public School for their support of the project.

The sale will be held at the White Cross Road gates of Winmalee Public School this Saturday from 9am-2pm.

Plant sale will grow bushfire recovery

A massive recovery plant sale at Winmalee Public School this Saturday (September 13), will not only bring spring to local gardens but will also help raise funds for last year’s bushfire victims.

Evolving out of a University of Western Sydney (UWS) project titled “Our Place”, the Blue Mountains Simply Living community group has set out to help fire-affected and other residents get back into their gardens.

There will be a large range of plants for sale and demonstrations of compost and worm farming. The bushfire recovery book, “As the Smoke Clears” will also be for sale.

Simply Living group convenor, Francis Mackay, said a small grant from UWS, under the program led by Professor Margaret Somerville, had made the project possible.

“Gardening is a great way to get people to think about their local environment, particularly their soil and biodiversity,” Mr Mackay said.

“And especially for fire-affected residents, this is a way to inspire and encourage appreciation of the environment around their homes that was saved a year ago.”

“We will have vegetable, flower and herb seedlings, fruit trees, natives and exotics, and all proceeds from the sale will go to the Blue Mountains Mayoral Relief Fund,” he said.

Mr Mackay thanked Winmalee Public School for their support of the project.

The sale will be held at the White Cross Road gates of Winmalee Public School this Saturday from 9am-2pm.