Danielle Hazell

BACHELOR OF TOURISM MANAGEMENT

"I am impressed with the amazing facilities and course options at Western Sydney University, particularly for tourism students, such as overseas studying options, a comprehensive library of resources and the great selection of Connect facilities, such as the bookshop and gym."

COURSE	UAC CODE	CRICOS CODE	WS CODE	INTAKE	LOCATION	DURATION	ATAR
Bachelor of Tourism Management	727755	056711F	1664	March/July	Parramatta	3F/6P	72.40

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time; P = Part-time.

Note: Part-time refers to study load, not to timetabling of evening classes.

The continuing "boom" of the tourism industry globally marks tourism out as one of the most exciting employment prospects for graduating students. As one of the few degrees in Australia that combines a social science and business focus, the Bachelor of Tourism Management is uniquely equipped to provide its graduates with the specialist knowledge and practical experience necessary to pursue pathways to employment in the tourism and cultural industries.

The core of the degree provides an in-depth introduction to the business underpinnings of tourism alongside a consideration of its natural, social and cultural environments. It thereby brings together issues of tourism planning and management with a developed understanding of the needs of local and destination communities.

Academically, the degree is structured around core historical and theoretical developments in tourism studies, which provide a depth of knowledge regarding contemporary sector issues such as the push for responsible and sustainable development. A strong practical orientation also allows students to learn beyond the classroom through fieldtrips, onsite visits and a semester-long placement within the tourism sector.

Students are taught by experienced and knowledgeable staff with international reputations, all of whom bring with them close connections with the Sydney tourism industry, such as Destination NSW, Sydney Olympic Park, the Australian Federation of Travel Agents, local government, and professional bodies.

Graduates of the Bachelor of Tourism Management will be "work-ready" and equipped with both applicable tourism theory and real world experience.

PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE

In their final year of the Bachelor of Tourism Management, students chose to complete either a semester-long tourism industry professional placement within the Sydney area or an international placement. Both are coordinated by staff within the School of Social Sciences and Psychology and contribute to the units required for graduation. Both placement programs allow students to develop a clear sense of the relationship between theory and practice.

PROFESSIONAL RECOGNITION

The Bachelor of Tourism Management was developed in consultation with the tourism industry and is overseen by an External Advisory Committee, which completed a thorough review of the degree in November 2016. The degree is endorsed by our industry partners, such as Incognitus, an international event management firm, and Western Sydney Parklands Trust.

CORE UNITS AND ELECTIVES

To graduate with a Bachelor of Tourism Management, students are required to complete 24 units, including an approved, semester-long work placement. The core units of study for this degree include: Understanding Society; Enterprise Innovation and Markets; Sustainability, Tourism and Place; Tourism and Global Trends, Tourism in Society; Tourism Policy and Planning; Heritage and Tourism; and Indigenous Cultures: A Global Perspective.

There are eight electives within the Bachelor of Tourism Management. Electives may be chosen from other Social Science or Humanities or Business related programs, allowing students flexibility. Students also have the opportunity to undertake majors, sub-majors or elective studies in cognate areas, including: Heritage and Tourism, Anthropology, Geography and Urban Studies, and Peace and Development Studies.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

As a graduate of the Bachelor of Tourism Management, students enjoy a wide range of career opportunities in Australia and internationally. Career opportunities include:

- cultural, tourism and leisure industry development
- festival and event management
- National Park conservation and management
- tourism policy development
- tour operations
- tourism industry entrepreneurship
- destination and event marketing
- visitor attractions management
- hospitality provision
- policy-analysis
- research roles in national, regional and local tourism offices.

Bachelor of Social Science (Advanced)

COURSE	UAC CODE	WS CODE	INTAKE	LOCATION	DURATION	ATAR

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time; P = Part-time.

Note: Part-time refers to study load, not to timetabling of evening classes.

The Bachelor of Social Science (Advanced) degree is a superior three-year program offering flexibility and choice within a range of offerings in the social sciences. As an advanced degree graduate, you will be equipped with all the interdisciplinary and specialist skills and knowledge that a new graduate would need on entering the workforce.

Our students are encouraged to choose from more than one of the social sciences to allow for personal and occupational interests and prepare themselves to extend their studies at the major and sub-major levels.

The majors and sub-majors include: Anthropology Child and Community; Criminology and Criminal Justice; Geography and Urban Studies; Peace and Development Studies; Sociology; and Heritage and Tourism.

An ATAR of at least 90.00 is required and students are expected to maintain a Grade Point Average (GPA) of 5.0 throughout their studies.

Students enrolled in this degree also automatically join The Academy.

Louise Klint

GRADUATE BACHELOR OF TOURISM MANAGEMENT TOURISM DEVELOPMENT OFFICER

“I am passionate about tourism. Tourism touches most people and by completing a Bachelor of Tourism Management all future students will gain a comprehensive knowledge about the tourism system, how to ensure it remains sustainable into the future and how to develop extraordinary tourism experiences for people to enjoy. During my studies at WSU, I gained a comprehensive understanding of the tourism system. I also learnt to research and use this research for strategic planning. I undertook work experience projects that helped me complete similar projects in my working life. Finally, my passion for tourism was sparked through the excellent staff and subjects available at the University.”

Bachelor of Social Science (Heritage and Tourism)

COURSE	UAC CODE	CRICOS CODE	WS CODE	INTAKE	LOCATION	DURATION	ATAR
B Social Science (Heritage and Tourism)	727615	041159D	1667	March/July	Parramatta	3F/6P	71.85

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time; P = Part-time.

Note: Part-time refers to study load, not to timetabling of evening classes.

In an ever-changing world, protection of our cultural, historical and natural environments is one of the most pressing challenges facing contemporary society. In the context of conflict and war, natural and human-made disasters, rapid development and climate change, heritage has become a touchstone for social and cultural identity, a reminder of the importance of peace and development, and integral to our senses of citizenship, custodianship and community. At the same time heritage sites have become significant tourist destinations, accounting for over one-third of the international tourism market.

This major in the Bachelor of Social Science is designed to introduce students to core historical and theoretical developments, as well as the full range of contemporary issues faced by the heritage sector. In addition to enabling a critical examination of the relationship between heritage and tourism in a number of settings within Australia and internationally, the major also delivers a strong practical orientation. This allows students to learn beyond the classroom through digitally-enhanced fieldtrips and onsite visits, as well as an opportunity to opt into a semester-long placement within the heritage tourism sector.

Graduates will be equipped to seek careers within a diverse range of government and non-government organisations, as well as businesses that require understanding, insight and skills related to heritage, culture and tourism planning.

CORE UNITS AND ELECTIVES

To graduate with a Bachelor of Social Science (Heritage and Tourism), students are required to complete 24 units. The core social science units for this degree include: Working with Communities; Understanding Society; People, Place and Social Difference; and Contemporary Social Issues and Professional Practice.

In addition to those eight core social science units, students must also satisfactorily complete eight units from the Heritage and Tourism major, which may include: Tourism in Society; Issues in Contemporary Heritage; Heritage and Tourism; Tourism Policy and Planning; Heritage Interpretation; Indigenous Cultures: A Global Perspective.

Students have very wide choices for an additional eight electives, which may be selected from other Western Sydney University programs or from within the School of Social Sciences and Psychology.

INDIGENOUS AUSTRALIAN STUDIES

Enrolment in the Indigenous Australian Studies (IAS) major, sub-major or units is available to all UWS undergraduate students who have open electives. Find out more at studyias.com.au

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

As a Heritage and Tourism graduate, you will find career opportunities in a variety of social and vocational contexts, including:

- local government
- heritage organisations
- cultural tourism
- museums
- community work
- teaching (with further study)
- international development agencies
- public service.

May Willard

GRADUATE BACHELOR OF SOCIAL SCIENCE (HERITAGE AND TOURISM) HERITAGE ASSISTANT AND HISTORIAN

“I thoroughly enjoy being able to research historic sites and buildings in Sydney and NSW as a whole. I also like being able to apply critical thought to the heritage significance of sites to assist my seniors in making informed decisions. The Bachelor of Tourism Management is an excellent degree that prepares students for a variety of roles based in the tourism and heritage sectors.”

Geography is the integrated study of people, places and environments. In this major of the Bachelor of Social Science, you will examine the geography of contemporary Australian cities and regions.

The interests of today's geographers include post-colonialism, the emergence of global information economies, Indigenous issues, class and cultural disparities, population movement, sexuality and space, and the global diffusion of popular culture.

Urban Studies is a discipline focused on social justice within the city through its critical assessments of peoples' access to scarce urban resources such as housing, transport, education and employment. The political, economic and cultural forces that shape cities and urban policy are the key concerns of the Urban Studies curriculum.

These applied interests in urban wellbeing and city structure are the intellectual basis for the urban planning profession.

CORE UNITS AND ELECTIVES

To graduate with a Bachelor of Social Science, you will be required to complete 24 units.

The core units in this degree may include: Working with Communities; Understanding Society; People, Place and Social Difference; The Individual in Society; Ethics in the Social Sciences; Social Research Methods; Applied Social Research; and Contemporary Social Issues and Professional Practice.

In addition to the core units in this degree, you must satisfactorily complete eight units from Geography and Urban Studies, which may include: Cities: Introduction to Urban Studies; The Economics of Cities and Regions; Analysis of Spatial Data; Cultural and Social Geographies; Transport, Access and Equity; Planning the City: Development, Community and Systems; Geographies of Migration; and Indigenous Cultures: A Global Perspective.

INDIGENOUS AUSTRALIAN STUDIES

Enrolment in the Indigenous Australian Studies (IAS) major, sub-major or units is available to all undergraduate students who have open electives. Find out more at westernsydney.edu.au/studyias

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

As a Geography and Urban Studies graduate, your future offers some exciting career prospects.

Graduates frequently find employment in areas such as:

- urban and regional planning
- urban research and policy
- housing policy
- economics and allocation
- strategic planning policy
- environmental and social impact assessment
- community planning
- teaching (with further study)
- social and cultural planning.

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time; P = Part-time.

Note: Part-time refers to study load, not to timetabling of evening classes.

The Peace and Development Studies major is concerned with inequalities of power and opportunity that lead to international and local conflict, uneven development, social dislocation and environmental degradation.

This major within the Bachelor of Social Science examines the structural causes of racist and gendered violence, environmental crises, forced migration, poverty, resource conflict and intergenerational inequity.

Our students are introduced to theories and methods for identifying, measuring and resolving conflict and environmental degradation. Constructive solutions include empowerment and self-determination, sustainable living, peace building and conflict resolution strategies.

The major is organised around three fields of inquiry: Structural Inequality, Social Justice and Human Rights; Development and Sustainability; and Peace and Humanitarian responses/actions. During your studies, you will engage with social theory within an interdisciplinary and applied framework of important civic and global issues.

CORE UNITS AND ELECTIVES

To graduate with a Bachelor of Social Science (Peace and Development Studies) you will be required to complete 24 units, as well as approved work experience.

The core units in this degree may include: Working with Communities; Understanding Society; People, Place and Social Difference; The Individual in Society; Ethics in the Social Sciences; Social Research Methods; Applied Social Research; and Contemporary Social Issues and Professional Practice.

In addition to the eight core units listed above, you must satisfactorily complete eight units from Peace and Development Studies, which may include: Human Rights, Peace and Development; Development and Sustainability; Sustainable Futures; Alternatives to Violence; Issues in World Development: Rich World, Poor World; Peace-Making and Peace-Building; and Peace and Development Project.

Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking

When you enrol in an advanced degree at Western Sydney University, you also qualify for the Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking. This degree is designed to be undertaken in combination with any Bachelor degree. It focuses on ethical leadership, creativity and innovation, the capacity to deal with complex issues, relationship and critical thinking skills. You will learn to think from multiple perspectives, see and create opportunities, and bring creative, cooperative, and ethical leadership to your future role in the workplace – even if that role, is, as yet, unimagined.

Note: The Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking is not a stand-alone degree. It can only be taken in combination with an existing Bachelor degree. Students enrolled in a degree linked with the Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking will gain entry into The Academy. A minimum ATAR of 85.00 is required for the degree. However, course specific ATARs may be higher. You will only be able to select courses where you meet the required ATARs.

All units in these concurrent degrees are delivered on the Parramatta campus only.

For more detailed information about the course structure and units, visit westernsydney.edu.au/courses

A ONE OF A KIND DEGREE IN DATA SCIENCE.

In the world of tomorrow, data skills will be essential – no matter what other qualifications you may have. Western's new Bachelor of Data Science is a one of a kind.
