

2GB, Sydney

Breakfast: 21 Mar 2013 07:14AM

Compere: Chris Smith

Interview with Kuranda Seyit, Director, FAIR. Smith says there were violent protests last year after a video on YouTube mocked the prophet Muhammad, and the Sydney protest was sparked by a mass text message. He says the issue of radical Islam and radicalisation of Muslim youth is at play in communities. Professor Kevin Dunn, University of Western Sydney has said sheikhs from 'garage mosques' have views outside the mainstream. A new website, islamate.org.au, aims to counter radicalisation amongst Muslim youth. Seyit says that Australian Muslims are very different to those in the Middle East though issues periodically flare up.

Interviewees:

Kuranda Seyit, director, FAIR

Item ID: W00052629104

ASR: AUD 15,019

Duration: 10 mins 59 secs

Audience:

Male 16+: 81,000

Female 16+: 77,000

All People: 159,000