With respect for Aboriginal cultural protocol and out of recognition that its campuses occupy their traditional lands. Western Sydney University acknowledges the Darug, Eora, Dharawal (also referred to as Tharawal) and Wiradjuri peoples and thanks them for their support of its work in their lands (Greater Western Sydney and beyond).

Message from the Dean School of Business

Congratulations to all the 2022 School of Business Dean's Medal and Donor Awards recipients! You should be enormously proud of yourselves, just like your families and we are.

The Dean's Medal recipients are our highest performing students – they will be our leading change-makers in years to come. Their success today is the result of talent and application across years of study. We applaud you all.

The annual Donor Awards presentations are a special event to celebrate our collaborations with industry. Many of our partners generously donate prizes to our best-performing students in particular areas of business study. We thank our industry partners and congratulate the recipients of these very special, donor-funded prizes.

The School of Business is one of the largest at Western Sydney University, with over 7,000 students. In 2021 the School was awarded international accreditation by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB). AACSB accreditation is the longest-standing, most prestigious form of global accreditation that a university and its business programs can earn. This accreditation ensures that business schools meet the highest standards of excellence in teaching, research, curriculum, and learner success. Fewer than 6% of business schools worldwide have earned this prestigious endorsement. It is recognised both here in Australia and internationally as a guarantee of a high-quality degree.

We are Western's flagship school for industry integration and community engagement. We work closely with industry and community partners to ensure that our range of professionally accredited and industry recognised courses help prepare our students for outstanding careers anywhere. Employers attest that our graduates are confident and work-ready when they enter the professional world. They have future-proof skills and are prepared to challenge existing norms to succeed in the jobs of the future.

In these globally challenging times however, we ask more than that – of ourselves, our programs, and our students. We seek to ensure our students are resilient, agile and entrepreneurial in their response to disruption. We strive to inspire them to consider their social responsibility, and to be responsive to community needs. We seek to teach them to be culturally aware and inclusive. We urge them to use their life skills and educational accomplishments with a positive impact as they move toward their future careers.

We do this by delivering programs with a curriculum in which these values and skills are deeply embedded. We do this by measuring competencies and assurance of learning in subjects throughout the degree. We do this by our commitment to work-integrated learning through workplace projects and guest speakers and the opportunity for program credit Internships - where theory meets practice.

We are committed to life-long learning and encourage our students as they progress through to graduation to remain connected with the School. They can do that through our recently launched EnterpriseXchange portal with links through to Master Classes, a resource centre and more. Alumni can also connect through the Western Business Research Collective (WBRC) with news and events and links to our researchers. Or you can take your career to new heights with our growing suite of postgraduate micro-credentials.

The School of Business at Western is deeply rooted in the community of Greater Western Sydney and is proud to have a part in shaping these corporate citizens of the future. We look forward to celebrating your achievements and the impact you will have on our shared community in the years to come.

Professor Amir Mahmood
Dean, School of Business

Message from the Dean

School of Law

A big congratulations to you on receiving your award tonight. It is a credit to you, your hard work and persistence in reaching this achievement.

I'm sure that your families and community are also rightly proud of you and have helped you achieve this. The School of Law is dedicated to excellence in research, teaching and learning and community engagement. Our researchers lead in diverse areas such as human rights in the Asia Pacific to public health regulation in South West Sydney. You are part of a vibrant community of students and academics and we are committed to your achievement.

For those of you leaving the School of Law we do hope you will maintain close contact with us as alumni. Your law degree equips you in powerful ways to contribute to the community and we look forward to hearing of your future successes and your contributions to make our world fairer and with an effective rule of law. Once again, congratulations to each of you and we look forward to our ongoing relationship.

Professor Anna Cody

David Southon and Aliro Group

David Southon is no stranger to tough challenges. Launching property investment group Charter Hall with two partners during an economic downturn in 1991, he drew on learnings from his Western Sydney University Bachelor of Business (Land Economy) degree, focusing particularly on property development, investment and funds management, to establish strategies that enabled the business to grow and thrive.

‘The first three years were particularly tough,’ he recalls. ‘However, they highlighted the need to focus on revenue and value creation, forming the genesis of the successful and diverse Property Funds Management business.’ In many ways the degree chose him, says David. ‘It was a turning point in my life and career. The course provided a new-found direction where I could connect the application of the theory to tangible and meaningful outcomes, which inspired me to pursue a career in property.’

The relationships David made at Western Sydney University also benefited his career from the earliest stages. One friendship with a fellow student opened the door for a cadetship with Leighton Properties, and another has turned into a successful business partnership - as David shared the role of Managing Director with fellow Western Sydney University graduate, David Harrison.

David Southon considers growing a successful property funds management business through challenging financial times to list on the ASX in 2005 (and today to have grown to be a high performing ASX 100 company) as his proudest career accomplishment. Today, Charter Hall has approximately $15.4 billion worth of projects in its development pipeline, over $88 billion of assets under management and offices around Australia.

In 2017, David, together with his business partner, Daniel Wise, launched Aliro Group, a property development, investment and funds management group. Aliro accesses, deploys and manages wholesale capital and has rapidly grown to 21 employees with a secured pathway to $4.5 billion of funds under management.

CPA Australia – Parramatta Commerce and Industry Discussion Group Awards

Donor CPA Australia - Parramatta Commerce and Industry Discussion Group
CPA Australia, the primary professional association for qualified accountants in Australia, facilitates a number of programs that members can utilise in order to maintain their current state of knowledge within their chosen profession. One such program is the 'Discussion Group' which allows members to keep up to date in their areas of interest, earn CPD points and generally network within the local commercial environment.

Members meet monthly, and in the case of the Parramatta Commerce and Industry Discussion Group, they review and discuss any contemporary issues that have a commercial flavour. Meetings are often led by an outside expert on the topic chosen for that month, and allows for a more informal discussion and exchange of ideas than may be apparent at a formal fee charging seminar.

The members are drawn from commerce and industry establishments within the area and are conducted at a time convenient to allow attendance whilst homeward bound. Future members may well come from Western Sydney University graduates. The Group has existed for over 40 years and, since its meeting place is on the Western Sydney University Parramatta campus, it has some interest in the education and direction taken by Western Sydney University Accounting undergraduates.

Donor

Max Ruddock Memorial Trust

Maxwell Stanley Ruddock was born in Marrickville and spent his early years living in Windsor and Eastwood, before living in Penrith, Canberra and Pennant Hills with his wife Emmie and their children.

In 1938 Max completed a Master's Degree in Economics. During and after the War, between 1942-1948, Max was the Deputy Prices Commissioner in Canberra. He held various public service and executive positions, before becoming a public accountant in 1956. He also topped Australia in Accounting and was an Associate of the Australian Society of Accountants.

Max's political career began in 1954 when he became a Councillor with Hornsby Shire Council, a position he held until 1965. In 1961, he was appointed to the position of President of the Shire and held a number of positions within the Liberal Party, Pennant Hills Branch, and Eastwood and Hornsby electorate conferences. From 1959-1962 Max served as the General Secretary to the NSW Wheat and Woolgrowers Association. In March of 1962, Max was elected as the Member for The Hills, an office he held until 1976; the year he passed away. He also served as Minister for Revenue, an office which he held until 10 October 1975 when he was made Minister for Transport and Minister for Highways.

The Max Ruddock Memorial Award in The Australian Macroeconomy was established by his wife, Emmie, and his three children, Philip, Janice and Suzanne, as a fitting and heartfelt memorial.

Buttar, Caldwell & Co. Solicitors Future Female Leaders Award

Donor Buttar, Caldwell & Co. Solicitors
Buttar, Caldwell & Co. Solicitors celebrates being part of the Sydney legal community since 2000. The firm was founded by Pervaiz Buttar and joined by Wajiha Ahmed, a graduate of Western Sydney University. We are proud to have helped train many lawyers since we commenced. We are acutely aware of the disproportionate representation of females in senior legal roles, something we pride ourselves with Wajiha being a partner in our firm. It is our hope the contribution we provide, will facilitate supporting future legal leaders and to be representative of the rich culturally and linguistically diverse communities which make up Western Sydney University.

Lachlan Macquarie Chambers Moot Court Award

DonorLachlan Macquarie Chambers

Lachlan Macquarie Chambers was founded in 1986 when 25 forward-thinking barristers decided that Parramatta needed full-service chambers to serve the growing legal precinct and Western Sydney. The group purchased and converted the former Rural Bank building on George Street. Today, the chambers has 28 barristers, representing about two thirds of the Parramatta Bar. Four judicial appointments have come from their ranks and many current members are arbitrators or mediators.

The thriving Parramatta Justice Precinct has grown to include many specialist courts. Barristers from Lachlan Macquarie Chambers appear in all federal and state courts at Parramatta and in both civil and criminal jurisdictions. They also appear in Sydney and other locations, using Parramatta as a central point to serve Sydney's wider population. Lachlan Macquarie Chambers has championed the legal profession in Western Sydney by contributing to the University's Law School since 1999. Some of its members are proud graduates of Western Sydney University.

Lamrocks Award in Equity and Trusts

DonorLamrocks Solicitors

Lamrocks Solicitors is Penrith's leading law firm, with a reputation for providing outstanding legal advice and representation coupled with a client focus. Established in 1882, the firm is recognised for both its professional strength and its ongoing commitment to excellence. Lamrocks' goal is to ensure that the Greater Western Sydney region has access to the full range of personal legal services, and local expertise it deserves. With Law Society accredited specialists in the fields of property law, wills and estates, family law, and personal injury, Lamrocks is large enough to provide the expertise required, yet small enough to maintain its personal focus. The firm's values and community spirit are reflected in its decision to support law students at Western Sydney University and to reward outstanding performance in the key areas of advanced torts and civil wrongs. Offering an annual award, Lamrocks is hoping to give something back to the community and play a role in developing the future of the profession.

Louise Mathias Award for Academic Excellence - Mediation

DonorLouise Mathias

Louise is a Multidisciplinary Barrister | Advanced Trained Mediator [Harvard], High-Performance – Confident Leadership | Teams and Business Coach and Consultant.

Resolving conflict as leaders requires an updated, proven approach to conflict resolution. Leaders don't rely on technical skills alone because they know that the first reaction to conflict is generally emotional.

When resolving conflict, leaders are deliberate, self-aware, and use self-control to ensure they show up as the best version of themselves; value-driven, challenging their assumptions and the negative stories they tell themselves about the other side, so they remain optimistic, future-focused, and communicating with influence. They are focused on role modelling and elevating themselves and those around them to improve their performance and results in the process.

RH Stillman Memorial Award for Excellence in Combined Law

DonorThe Estate of Reuben Herbert Stillman

When Reuben Herbert Stillman (Ron) arrived in Australia in the early 1950s, the electrical engineer was virtually penniless. Having completed his schooling and apprenticeship in England, he went on to secure work, and spent most of his working life at Northern Rivers County Council in Grafton. He retired to Brisbane to complete his PhD in electrical engineering at the University of Queensland. Ron's involvement in law started with preparing expert reports on electrical accidents. In Brisbane, he became involved in research in law and economics and, together with Professor Carolyn Sappideen, he published a book on negligence, risk and liability in the electricity supply industry. He moved to Sydney to complete his law degree and later, at Western Sydney University, his Master of Laws by thesis on liability in the electrical supply industry. In retirement, Ron also worked as a consultant and adjunct professor at UNSW, and researched and taught about risk assessment.

The son of Russian refugees, Ron was a prolific reader with a love of learning and scholarship - nurtured when he was evacuated from London to boarding school during the Blitz. He is survived by his son Robert and his wife Dr Margaret Mackisack. The RH Stillman Award recognises the achievements of talented law students.

This award is donated by Elayne Hayes in honour of her late husband, Associate Professor Dr Robert Hayes who passed away in 2011. Dr Hayes is remembered as a passionate and dedicated lecturer in the School of Law, who was committed to providing the highest quality legal education to his students at Western Sydney University. Dr Hayes was one of the first Australian lawyers to graduate with a PhD, and his first job was teaching at Monash University. As a young academic he held visiting professorships at Canada's McGill and Toronto universities, and assisted in establishing the School of Law at the University of New South Wales. Throughout his career, Dr Hayes worked across seven universities, including the universities of Queensland and New England, and at the Aix law school of the Universite de Provence in France. Dr Hayes held numerous positions over the course of his career, including Senior Member on the Veterans Review Board, the Administrative Appeals Tribunal, and President of the NSW Mental Health Review Tribunal. He was also recruited as a full-time commissioner of the Australian Law Reform Commission.

William Orule Memorial Award

Donor

William Orule Memorial

William was a beloved brother, father and friend who dedicated himself to the service of others. He was a passionate advocate for the emerging communities, particularly amongst his local Sudanese community in Western Sydney.

William fled South Sudan as a refugee, arriving in Australia in late 2003. Settling in Western Sydney, he attended Evans Intensive English Centre and then Patrician Brothers College in Blacktown earning the role of School Captain and obtaining his high school Certificate in his final year in 2006.

Determined to fulfil his education dreams, William worked multiple jobs, mostly after hours, whilst completing high school and subsequently supporting himself through NSW TAFE and University studies. William graduated from Western Sydney University's School of Law in 2019 and was admitted as a lawyer in April 2021. In early 2018, he had begun working at Hall & Wilcox Law firm and was looking forward to a career as a legal practitioner.

Sadly, William passed away in August 2021 due to illness. The William Orule Memorial Award recognises and encourages Law students from a refugee background in their journey towards careers as legal practitioners. A fitting memorial to William and his own journey and achievements.
