WE ARE WESTERN SYDNEY
Located in the heart of one of Australia’s fastest growing economic regions, Western Sydney University offers unlimited potential to students with the talent, drive and ambition to succeed.

Western Sydney is an exciting place to be. As the nation’s third largest economy, and one of the fastest growing population and employment centres, it is an increasingly important, dynamic and culturally diverse hub of business, industry and innovation.

With a large multicultural population of more than two million people from 170 nations, Western Sydney’s global links are creating unlimited opportunities for international business, investment, education and cultural exchange.

Ranked amongst the top two per cent of universities in the world, Western Sydney University values academic excellence, integrity and the pursuit of knowledge. We are globally focused, research led and committed to making a positive impact on the communities we engage with.

Your success starts here.
Most people are good at something. What’s your passion? Do you excel at English literature? Are you a mental mathematician? An advocate for social justice? A designer extraordinaire? Do you breathe foreign languages?

It’s important to acknowledge and play to your strengths because, ultimately, your strengths will determine your future. This is the premise behind Western Sydney University’s HSC True Reward - a unique early offer program that recognises the strengths of each individual.

True Reward offers you a place at Western before you receive your ATAR, on the basis of relevant HSC subject results. Why? Because at Western we recognise that too often, the ATAR system overlooks natural strengths and talent.

At Western, we see the awesome in you. We recognise that you are much more than your ATAR. True Reward focuses on the scores that reflect your strong points.

True Reward is a better system. It’s a more equitable system. It’s a system that makes sense.

True Reward acknowledges the idea that if you’re good at something, you’re just what Western is looking for.

A CREATIVE DEGREE THAT GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS
Our unique degrees in Creative Industries will prepare you with solid creative skills. You will learn in our state-of-the-art studios and facilities on the Parramatta South campus.

CREATE FRESH IDEAS
Western Sydney University’s Creative Industries graduates produce original and innovative ideas and are empowered to enrich cultures and communities through a positive contribution to the real world.

JOIN THE FAST-PACED CREATIVE INDUSTRIES
Media and creative industries are dynamic and fast-paced industries, changing on a daily basis. The rise of social media and mobile technology encourages the free exchange of ideas with international audiences hungry for innovation and new content. We will prepare you to thrive in this new environment, bringing together communication, design, new media, music, media production, journalism, public relations and advertising, with choices from business and innovation studies.

COMBINE THEORY AND PRACTICE
Our courses blend theoretical and practical approaches across a wide range of related disciplines. Our research is practice led and grounded in the real world.

HELPING STUDENTS LAND THEIR DREAM JOBS
Our staff are committed to helping you reach your career goals. Lucy McNally, ABC reporter and graduate of the Bachelor of Communication (Journalism) degree, says, ‘I wouldn’t have my current position in the ABC newsroom if it weren’t for the outstanding staff at Western Sydney University. They always went beyond the call of duty for students who were really trying to get into the industry’.

ENJOY FABULOUS FACILITIES
You will learn from highly-trained technical staff in our convergent media studios. With on-site recording studios, edit suites, music performance venues, design studios, and photography and print facilities, you will gain valuable experience and a taste of life after university.

COLLABORATE WITH FELLOW STUDENTS AND YOUR COMMUNITY
We foster collaboration between students from other disciplines on production projects. Experienced staff support this process, including our in-house fourth-year design studio – Rabbit Hole. You will have the opportunity to get involved in industry and community-based projects and placements, and publish and exhibit your work while studying. Creative industries students will complete a major with the opportunity to undertake an industry internship placement.

BECOME AN AWARD WINNER
The University’s Bachelor of Design students have been very successful in the Australian Graphic Design Association Awards. Our Bachelor of Communication (Journalism) students have also earned national awards, such as the Journalism Education Association’s Ossie Awards for Journalism, and the Federation of Ethnic Communities’ Council of Australia/SBS Multicultural Journalism Student of the Year.

FREE DIGITAL TEXTBOOKS
Western was the first university to provide all the digital textbooks for your first year units for free. We are pleased to be offering the benefit of free digital textbooks for first year units to students once again in 2019! That’s up to $800 in value. Why? Because money shouldn’t stand between you and opportunity. Discover more about free digital textbooks at westernsydney.edu.au/textbooks

Future thinking. Unlimited possibilities. The Academy at Western Sydney University.
Western Sydney University’s Bachelor of Creative Industries partners with creative industries to provide an interdisciplinary, experiential degree that combines a core of entrepreneurship with major studies including culture and society, creative writing, design, enterprise innovation, journalism, literature, media arts, music performance and photomedia.

You will study a unique mix of creative, business and law units and, through the use of incubators and co-working spaces, will work with emergent and established creative industry partners to develop innovative solutions to real problems.

The Bachelor of Creative Industries from Western Sydney University offers a unique opportunity for you to acquire the creative and business skills that are necessary to prosper in the contemporary innovation landscape.

The World Economic Forum’s 2016 report on the future of jobs hailed the start of a fourth industrial revolution inspired by the disruptive influence of technologies.

It predicted a profound shift in work practices towards remote working, co-working and an ever-smaller pool of full-time employees, backed up by external consultants and contractors.

And with creativity at the centre of the Australian Government’s Innovation Agenda, the jobs of the future will depend on collaborative thinking and devising innovative solutions to complex problems.

Meanwhile, market indicators suggest a robust set of external circumstances underpins growth in the Creative Industries sectors, especially in Greater Western Sydney.

This course is designed for those who wish to pursue a creative practice while gaining the business and legal acumen to become a successful part of the creative economy on their own terms.

There are opportunities to develop projects with real creative industries and deliver solutions across a range of platforms. You may also undertake an in-depth practice-led research project or intern professionally in the field. You will be supported with first-rate technical facilities.

Graduates’ skills will be relevant to growth in investment in the creative economy, particularly research and development around start-ups, where creative businesses act as external resources in the process of taking innovation to market.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES
The Bachelor of Creative Industries will prepare you and help you advance in roles in creative industries such as writing, market research, advertising, photography, design, journalism, media production, business innovation, music performance and more.

BACHELOR OF COMMUNICATION

VICE-CHANCELLOR’S LEADERSHIP SCHOLARSHIP

“I love the flexibility at Western that allows me to combine my interests in music and film, the leadership mentoring program and the friendly vibe.”
Western Sydney University offers a unique suite of communication units in advertising, public relations, journalism, and media production. All of our courses are based on real-world expectations, ensuring that your future works appeal to the right target audiences.

You will develop an understanding of your audience from cross-cultural and international perspectives. As the program covers all areas of communication, you will come to understand how your field of study is connected to other disciplines, enabling you to apply critical, reflective and creative skills to make informed decisions in a professional context. Through self-directed, team and problem-based learning strategies that require active participation in the community, you will learn to value ethical conduct, intellectual integrity, diversity and social justice principles.

All our Bachelor of Communication students undertake a common first year, covering general communications theory and practice. You can then choose a specialist major to suit your career aspirations. You may also choose to study your course online.

The Bachelor of Communication majors are:
- Advertising
- Journalism
- Media Arts Production*
- Public Relations.

*All second and third year students must study this major at Parramatta campus.

The Journalism major of the Western Sydney University’s Bachelor of Communication gives you the skills and experience you need to succeed in modern journalism as a multi-skilled digital practice. It integrates an understanding of how communication works with real-world experience in digital, online, broadcast, print and new media platforms.

The journalism area’s focus is the art of storytelling and information management. Students develop skills in news, writing, broadcasting, packaging information and delivering to target audiences in the most effective and efficient manner. We provide a fun and creative learning environment, including international internships, which nurture student capabilities for careers in media fields and corporate, business, government and community organisations.

Students learn life skills of curiosity, adaptability and networking to prosper and make a difference to their and others’ worlds through knowledge and communication. We connect and network to bolster students’ work opportunities.

In this area of study, our students develop digital, broadcast, print, and online journalism skills and expertise for the Internet, radio, television, print, corporate and community media contexts, and explore news-team participation and management. Professional practice, such as news production, feature writing, digital journalism production, photojournalism, internships and work experience, is combined with a critical study of how journalism skills are relevant across a range of digital and social media platforms and contexts.

CORE UNITS AND ELECTIVES

To graduate with a Bachelor of Communication (Journalism), you will be required to complete the core units of the Bachelor of Communication, the Journalism major units and elective units.

As a part of the Journalism major, you may complete units that include: News Reporting; Feature Writing; Journalism: Research and Investigation; Digital Journalism Production; Photo Journalism; Transmedia Production; News Teams; and an internship.

There are four electives within the Bachelor of Communication to be completed in addition to a major in Journalism. Electives may be chosen from other courses offered by the University, including those in the Indigenous Studies major and sub-major.

If you are interested in completing electives in Communication, you may consider units from the other Bachelor of Communication majors: Advertising, Media Arts Production or Public Relations. Bachelor of Design (Visual Communication) (Dean’s Scholars)

The Bachelor of Design (Visual Communication) Dean’s Scholars is an advanced degree for highly motivated young creatives who want to make a difference. Our program will enable you to become an articulate and innovative designer who can communicate using a wide range of visual media. You will engage with design processes that build on your existing talent and help you develop new skills through working individually and within a team, in response to a range of briefs and scenarios. Additionally, you will be introduced to different ideas, ways of seeing, methods and approaches that allow you to make rich contributions to your community and today’s culture. Through our program, you will develop a robust design practice that will equip you for a dynamic career landscape.

Delivered in our well-equipped facilities including photography and design studios, you will be learning in a creative environment with like-minded people.

As a Dean’s Scholar, you will gain direct entry into The Academy, where you will complete a tailored sub-major and be involved in events, workshops, and community-based projects, geared towards building your leadership skills, enabling you to graduate with an edge.

For more detailed course information, career opportunities and practical experience, please refer to the Bachelor of Design (Visual Communication) on the next page.
Visual communication is integral to today's culture, and there's a need for designers in virtually any field you can imagine.

If you're inspired by design, or have a creative 'itch' and enjoy learning new things, the Bachelor of Design (Visual Communication) degree will provide you with the right opportunities to shape a career in the design sector of the creative industries and beyond.

Our program will provide you with fundamental skills and knowledge to communicate ideas and information across a wide range of visual media. With an emphasis on studio-based practice, you will study areas such as image design, typography, layout design, branding, design history, research methods, and web-based design.

There are opportunities to engage with live community or industry projects, and you will choose two practical specialisations from the following: motion design and data visualisation; game and app design; illustration; and photography. Additionally, you will have four electives that you can use to study complementary non-Design subjects or a sub-major, offering you a tailored degree that reflects your particular interests and aspirations.

Our program centres on studio-based learning, introducing you to a range of ideas, perspectives, and methods that lay the foundation of your design practice.

From second year, you will develop two distinct practical specialisations, choosing from: digital design; interactive design; illustration; and photography. Additionally, you will have four electives that you can use to study other subjects that are of interest to you, or complete a non-Design sub-major from a range of complementary fields, such as Advertising Studies, Media Arts Production, and Mobile App Development.

Students may exit with 1624 Bachelor of Design Studies after successful completion of the first three years of the program.
The Bachelor of Graphic Design (Pathway to Teaching Secondary) is a tailored three-year degree geared towards undertaking the Master of Teaching (Secondary), an accredited postgraduate teaching qualification. Together, the two degrees provide direct access to a teaching career and a foundation for professional design practice, improving your career prospects.

With an emphasis on studio-based practice, you will study areas such as image design, typography, layout design, branding, design history, research methods, and web-based design. As you progress, you will develop a focus on digital design, photography and graphics technology, enabling you to develop two teaching disciplines: Design and Technology and Graphics and Multimedia Technology.

You will also undertake an Education Studies sub-major, where you will gain an understanding of contemporary education issues, teaching and learning.

This program is based at our Parramatta campus, but may require travel to Bankstown and Penrith campuses for the Education and Visualisation sub-majors.

For further information concerning the requirements for secondary teaching, students are advised to consult the Subject Content Requirements for Primary and Secondary Teaching NSW (Abridged) from the NSW Institute of Teachers or the School of Education.

PROFESSIONAL RECOGNITION

The course meets the NSW Education Standards Authority subject content requirements for the undergraduate degree for students continuing to a Master of Teaching (Secondary). You are advised to check the appropriateness of your undergraduate studies for teaching in NSW with the requirements for secondary teaching on the NSW Education Standards Authority website educationstandards.nsw.edu.au

To enter the Master of Teaching course, you will be required to demonstrate your suitability for teaching.

CAREER OPPORTUNITIES

This degree equips you with the necessary elements of an initial teacher qualification, and you will also be prepared for professional graphic design practice and associated alternate employment opportunities in design.

As a Bachelor of Graphic Design (Pathway to Teaching Secondary) graduate, you may pursue a career as a:
- high school teacher (with further study)
- content producer
- design educator
- graphic designer
- information designer
- photographer
- screen media designer.

CORE UNITS

Our program centres on studio-based learning, introducing you to a range of ideas, perspectives, and methods that lay the foundation of your design practice and allow you to develop the skills required to teach Design & Technology and Graphics & Multimedia at secondary school level.

From second year, you will shape two distinct practical design specialisations: digital design and photography, alongside commencing a Visualisation sub-major that provides you with additional software tools and drawing skills. You will also complete an Education Studies sub-major.
Bachelor of Screen Media (Arts and Production)

If screen production is a field you are passionate about and you want to be part of the creative industry boom in Australia, then join us in studying the Bachelor of Screen Media (Arts and Production). Our course provides the opportunity for you to develop your skills and be career-ready in areas such as video production, writing, producing, and directing for the screen.

The Bachelor of Screen Media (Arts and Production) offers studies in a range of screen media skills and production practice fields. These include Media, Communications and Arts as well as practical studies in Media Arts Production, Digital Journalism, with study options also including sound technology and web and motion design. Core Units and Electives

You will undertake a major in Media Arts Production covering a variety of digital platform production practices, including short film, documentary, experimental, transmedia and TV. The interdisciplinary sub-major in cultural and social analysis offers contemporary debates and methodologies in cultural studies and social theory. Topics include popular culture, cinema studies, everyday urban life, cultural and social impacts of scientific theories, and new technologies and multiculturalism.

Through self-directed, team-based and active participation in the community in professional contexts, graduates learn to reflect and value ethical and intellectual conduct as well as respect for diversity and social justice principles. Students are encouraged to find their areas of interest through project work, and will exit the course with a portfolio of production outcomes that reflect their skills and expertise for employment in the communication industries as a screen production professional.

You can also develop your field experience with an internship or study abroad opportunity to really make an impression to future employers.

Further Studies

Further study options are available to high-achieving students who wish to pursue higher degree research studies. Information about these options will be provided to you as you progress through your Bachelor degree, or you can find out more at westernsydney.edu.au/research.

If you are interested in becoming an innovative, articulate musician who contributes to the music community and today’s culture, the Bachelor of Music (Dean’s Scholars) will provide you with the right opportunities.

An advanced-level program, the Bachelor of Music (Dean’s Scholars) offers you the chance to significantly focus and develop your practical skills and theoretical knowledge beyond the scope of the Bachelor of Music degree.

The course offers high-level training in music, music performance, composition, sound technologies, music theory, musicology, music arrangement, and music analysis. The program is offered in well-equipped studios, and in a lecture/workshop/tutorial environment. Skills in music performance, composition and sound technologies are augmented by intellectual, theoretical and contextual studies.

As a Dean’s Scholar, you will gain direct entry into The Academy, where you will complete a tailored sub-major and be involved in events, workshops, and community-based projects geared towards building your leadership skills, enabling you to graduate with an edge.

Entry into the Bachelor of Music (Dean’s Scholars) is determined by one of three methods. For more information on entry requirements see page 24.
Bachelor of Music

Music is a universal art form. It transcends geographical, national, political, cultural and racial boundaries, and can evoke the full spectrum of emotions in listeners. Music encourages introspection, inspires social awareness and unity, and has even been known to inform policy.

Western Sydney University’s Bachelor of Music takes an eclectic, modern and inclusive approach to music repertoire, performance, sound design and musicology. It gives you an opportunity to develop your professional and creative potential in making and appreciating a range of different types of music. You will focus on repertoire and media of the 20th and 21st centuries and also study music from earlier historical periods. You will have opportunities to use our recording studios, multimedia and MIDI laboratories, and digital audio/video suites. You can also gain practical experience in performance as a soloist and in groups, concert administration and production, recording, composition, audio production, library research and retrieval, film music, and collaboration.

Oliver Kirby
BACHELOR OF MUSIC
VICE-CHANCELLOR’S LEADERSHIP SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENT

“The music program at Western Sydney University is very well rounded with units based on various aspects of the music industry, from classical to contemporary. Many of my peers consider Western to be of an extremely high educational standard in music and other courses.”

 ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
You will be selected by one of three methods: either by an audition; on a demonstrated level of attainment in 6th grade AMEB musical performance (instrument or voice) or equivalent, and 4th grade AMEB music theory and/or musicianship or equivalent; or on the successful completion of a TAFE diploma or advanced diploma.

Method 1 (Audition): You will be selected on an interview/audition in which personal aptitude, experience and educational qualifications are taken into consideration. After you have applied to UAC, you are required to book yourself in for an interview/audition and download a questionnaire from the University’s online audition booking system at westernsydney.edu.au/musicauditions. Please check the closing date on this website.

Method 2 (AMEB or equivalent qualifications): Students who have reached the level of 6th grade performance and 4th grade music theory and/or musicianship will not be required to audition. They will be required to submit certificates to UAC. Please check the closing date on westernsydney.edu.au/musicauditions

Method 3 (TAFE Diploma): The interview/audition requirement of admission is waived for students entering via the TAFE Diploma or Advanced Diploma Pathway. Students will be required to submit their certificates to UAC. Please check the closing dates on westernsydney.edu.au/musicauditions

Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking

When you enrol in an advanced degree at Western Sydney University, you also qualify for the Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking. This degree is designed to be undertaken in combination with any Bachelor degree.

It focuses on ethical leadership, creativity and innovation, the capacity to deal with complex issues, relationships and critical thinking skills. You will learn to think from multiple perspectives, see and create opportunities, and bring creative, cooperative and ethical leadership to your future role in the workplace – even if that role is, as yet, unimagined.

The course is designed for today’s leaders who are looking to build a better tomorrow.

Note: The Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking is not a stand-alone degree. It can only be taken in combination with an existing Bachelor degree. Students enrolled in a degree linked with the Bachelor of Applied Leadership and Critical Thinking will gain entry into The Academy. A minimum ATAR of 85.00 is required for the degree. However, course specific ATARs may be higher. You will only be able to select courses where you meet the required ATARs.

All units in these concurrent degrees are delivered on the Parramatta campus.

For more detailed information about the course structure and units, visit westernsydney.edu.au/future

In the world of tomorrow, data skills will be essential – no matter what other qualifications you may have. Western’s new Bachelor of Data Science is a one of a kind. It’s unique because it can only be studied in conjunction with another degree. This is a real advantage in a competitive environment. Graduates who understand the intricacies of extracting information and knowledge from data are highly sought after, whatever their discipline.

Blend Data Science with courses like Marketing, Engineering, Information and Communications Technology, Science or Psychology to graduate with a combined degree.

It will all add up to an unstoppable future. Find out more about what our Bachelor of Data Science degree can offer.
