1041474	WATCHLIST - Working with Children (Risk Management and Screening) Act 2000 (Qld)	The main purpose of this Act is to assist in protecting children from sexual or physical harm by providing for people who work with, or care for, children.	The University undertakes activities that may constitute Child-Related Work, where minors may be located in Queensland and a Working With Children Check (known as a Blue Card) is required.	No	Level W			Young and Resilient Research Centre - U62DB	Reason 6	The law is applicable to the University/Controlled Entity and its potential (but not current) operations. - YRRC may conduct research by researchers who are in NSW or interstate (other than Queensland) providing face to face or online services to children in Queensland would require a WWWC (known as a Blue Card). It appears to be similar to the NSW legislation, whereby research projects and programs fall under the general 'health, counselling, and support services'. You can't use another state or territory's working with children card, and the Queensland government does not recognise working with children checks conducted outside of Queensland. There is an exemption, however, in s 156 where the Queensland government has noted that people who do not need a Blue Card WWWC include “a paid employee, volunteer or student—and you are not a restricted person or a running a business—who works for no more than 7 days in a calendar year”. Please note that a calendar year starts from 1 January and ends on 31 December, and 'day' is for any period of time on 1 day, irrespective of whether it is a full day or part day. If they exceed the 7 days, a Queensland Blue Card WWWC is required, and it can be applied for remotely if you meet certain conditions such as living interstate to Queensland. Once the person has a “CRN”, apparently the process is a lot faster.
